LA CRESCENT MAN SOLVES ROAD MIX OVERFREE BRIDGE

Frank Smith of the Grubber Works Donates Land for the New Right of Way

TO MAKE IT STATE HIGHWAY

Pledges Secured to Guarantee That Minnesota Will Maintain Turnpike Hereafter

OLD DEPOT TO BE MOVED

Railway Company Promises to Move Station Half a Mile to Give Farmers Advantage

La Crosse will enjoy the benefits of a free wagon bridge beginning June first unless some unforeseen obstacle intervenes. Practically all of the aldermen pledged themselves today to vote for the bridge project which will be brought up before the next council meeting, May 12.

PARK TICKETS OUT

The La Crosse wagon bridge will be free after tomorrow for all citizens, whether afoot or with vehicles, who wish to go to the public baths or Pettibone Park. Those wishing to go farther must pay the regular fare.

Tickets will be required by the toll takers from all passers, but those wishing to get park tickets will be supplied free of cost at the office of the Board of Public Works.

highway and will be turnpiked and paved this summer. It will be straightened and shortened almost a mile eliminating two bad hills.

Final settlement of the aldermen's objection to making the bridge free because of the condition of the road beyond came yesterday following a meeting at La Crosse between representatives of the city council, merchants' association and Frank Smith of the Smith Grubber works, La Crosse's largest industry.

Mr. Smith told the aldermen and merchants that he had prepared a petition for making the road a state highway and had offered to donate land for the purpose of straightening and shortening the road, which meets the approval of the people here. He declared he had secured enough pledges of signers to his petition to be assured of the success of the plan.

Road to be Straightened
Beginning at a point where the road turns into La Crosse, it will be changed so as to continue straight through the property of the Smith Grubber company for a distance of three quarters of a mile. It will join the old Hohak road again at a point near the Dan Cameron farm.

This proposed road eliminates the hill into and out of La Crosse and shortens the direct road almost a mile. The new site will require practically no grading and rises by an easy slope to meet the Hohak road.

Included in the Smith plan is a promise from the Milwaukee railroad that the company will move its depot a half mile south so that it will face the new concrete road, making it an easy place for farmers to meet and take trains and load their shipments.

The La Crosse men who were in conference with Frank Smith were escorted by Alderman Burt Smith of the First ward. Included in the group were Aldermen Smith, Kroner, Strauss, Storandt and Worth and Harry Newburg and Harry Taggart of the Merchants' association.

GREAT VICTORY FOR ALLIES IN HOLLAND WITH DR. MAURER AND HIS SPYGLASSES

HERE'S ONE

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 30.—Via Wireless.—British claims of success on the Gallipoli peninsula are without foundation, according to the official statements issued by the war office. The Turkish forces on the peninsula are fighting with the utmost enthusiasm and have repelled the enemy at every point. The battle has now been in progress without interruption for two days and nights and the spirit of the Turkish forces is declared to be of the best.

In the first fighting after the landing Kum Kaleh fortress did not fire a single shot. The Turkish troops charged the enemy with bayonets and routed them, capturing large quantities of arms and ammunition. Forty of the enemy's battleships have been destroyed. Seddel Bahr without result.

POLAND APPEALS TO U. S. FOR FOOD TO PREVENT DEATH OF THOUSANDS

IN MANY PLACES FOOD WILL NOT LAST FORTNIGHT

Head of American Relief Work Asks Fellow Countrymen to Send Supplies by Parcel Post

BY CARL W. ACKERMAN
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
BERLIN, via The Hague, April 30.—Many thousand people in several districts of Poland face starvation today.

The government survey shows that in many places a food supply of from two to three weeks only is available. The question of relief is now being considered but because of the difficulty of purchasing food outside of Germany this is a difficult task.

The American Red Cross and the Rockefeller Foundation in charge of the relief work, are trying by every means in their power to obtain food for these needy people. After several months of effort Rumania is now permitting the purchase of corn, beans and barley in sufficient quantities to feed the Polish non-combatants in the territory held by Austria. But there are a number of sections where food is still needed. Sweden has refused to permit the export of wheat or other foodstuffs even though purchased for philanthropic work.

Carlton Gibson, head of the American relief work today issued through the United Press an appeal to Americans to aid in this work. He urges all who can to send immediately, by parcel post flour, beans, corn and rice addressed:

"Carlton Gibson, Distribution General, International Commission for Relief of Poland, Berlin."

If the responses are prompt he believes enough food will be available in the near future to tide the inhabitants of Poland over until the relief forces can get a supply of grain.

DR. EVANS APPEALS TO LAW MAKERS TO GUARD BABES

La Crosse Physician at Madison Argues for Pure Milk and Stringent Sanitary Laws

Dr. Edward Evans, one of the most active of the La Crosse clean milk advocates, is at Madison today in the interest of the babies of La Crosse. He is using his influence with a legislative committee to prevent the repeal of the law requiring all dairymen to subject their cattle to a tuberculosis test to determine and eliminate from their herd such cows as are found to be infected with tuberculosis germs.

Dr. Evans declares impure milk is the cause of many deaths among babies. He will represent to the legislature that repeal of the law requiring the tests would be almost criminal as it will saddle upon the legislators the blame for all impure milk sold throughout the state.

GERMAN SHIP CAPTURED

LONDON, April 30.—The admiral today announced that the German steamer Macedonia, which escaped from Laspalmas some time ago, has been captured by a British warship.

HERE'S ANOTHER

ATHENS, April 30.—Reports here indicate that the occupation of the seaside of the Gallipoli peninsula by the allies is practically complete. The British forces on the European side have defeated with heavy losses every attempt by the Turks to turn them back on their ships. The casualties among the Turks in killed and wounded number 5,000 and many prisoners have been made.

The heaviest fighting has taken place in the territory between Cape Suvla and the southern extremity of the peninsula. There the Turks had strongly entrenched themselves, utilizing entanglements and masked pits, but the big guns of the warships smashed the traps.

On the Asiatic side the French troops have captured more than five thousand Turkish prisoners.

Following the all-day bombardment Wednesday of the forts the heavier ships of the allied fleet remained in the straits all night and resumed the bombardment Thursday. It is stated here that a number of the Turkish batteries have been silenced.

HIGH SCHOOL HAS RECORDS BROKEN FOR GRADUATES

Class of 140 Students to Leave Institution Next Month Announced Today

COMMENCEMENT SPEAKERS OUT Exercises to Be Held June 17 to Consist of Short and Varied Program

One hundred forty students, the largest class in the history of the high school, will be graduated from the La Crosse high school June 17. Forty-four of the graduating class completed their course in February and the rest are in the June class.

William Walker will represent the February class for the boys and Miss Leah Young will be the girl commencement speaker from this class. Speakers for the June class have not been selected but will be chosen in a few days. After this class has made its selection, the faculty will choose two from either of the classes who also will be on the program. Commencement speeches this year will be limited to five minutes or thereabouts in order not to make the program drag.

Class Day Exercises
Members of the class are already making arrangements for the class day program. Prospects indicate it will be one of the best in years. It has been the practice of all classes for the last eight years to give such a "class day" during commencement week.

There are usually a number of acts of a vaudeville nature in which jokes, "take-offs" on the high school faculty, and humorous impersonations of students and faculty members form an interesting part.

June Class

Asta Anderson, Ovida Anderson, Russell Anderson, Hannah Bakum, Maynard Barney, Frances Beranek, Grace Bigelow, Andrew Boyd, Blanche Brock, Theodore Brown, Joseph Bruha, Unice Campbell, Marie Christian, Ruth Christianson, Donald Clark, Florence Clark, Eleanor Cronon, Donald Dean, Ferol Delamater, Lois Drake, Sadie Dyer, Marie Esch, John Fay, Alex Feinberg, Alvina Fremstad, Edith Gates, Ray Gesell, Gerald Gibson, Thomas Gibson, Grace Goyette, Dora Gunther, Merle Hagen, Louise Haniff, Winnifred Harrison, Hedwig Henker, Helen Hilton, Gordon Holway, Stella Holway, Viola Houska, Mamie Hynde, Dorothy Irish, Clara Jaeger, Gladys Johnson, William King, Herbert Krenz, Thomas Kucera, Effie Larson, Nora Larson, Calverna Linse, Roger Lucke, Elizabeth Lyons, Mary Nathanson, Helen Mann, Louise Mayer, Grace McHugh, James McKivergin, Julia Miller, Marcella Miller, Birdelle Morrison, Stella Nelson, Walter Netwal, Irene Ornt, Leighton Oyen, Julia Peterson, Martha Prohart, Walter Rust, Ella Renner, Mary Ryan, Tom Roche, Ida Sandmark, Malinda Schmitt, Selma Schwanzke, Mary Smolek, Ruth Skailand, Emanuel Stupka, Katherine Taylor, Marion Thomas, Clarence Thompson, Hope Turner, Ruth Van Kirk, Theodore Vornholt, Kingston Weisbecker, Frieda Welch, Esther Wiggert, Earl Winell, Victor Wolters, Elma Worthingham, Florence Young, Fred Zeisler.

PICTURE CONTEST ON AND ARTISTS' CLUB IS PLANNED

Three Pictures Selected at Directors' Meeting and Voting Upon Them Is Started Today

ART-WORKERS' CLUB IS PLANNED

Arts and Crafts to Find Devotees Who Will Study and Teach in This City

"STREET IN BRUGES"

By Victor Higgins

"SIMPSON'S MEADOW"

By Wilson Irvine

"LATE AUTUMN"

By Peyraud.

The above pictures were chosen last night by the board of directors of the Art Association of La Crosse, as three from which a purchase shall be selected by means of the voting contest.

Everybody should vote on these pictures. Votes are ten cents each, and here is a situation in which one may "vote early and often" without breaking into jail—or print. The choice will go to one of three great pictures. All are fine, but YOU will have a preference. Vote that preference. Have a part in the selection of the first Art Treasure ever purchased in La Crosse as a community acquisition.

At the suggestion of Mrs. Paul Pamperin the children may be permitted to purchase a picture without help from the grown-ups. The directors, of whom all but four were present, were interested in the idea of letting the children do something of their "very own."

The voting begins today, and if the children show the interest manifested thus far, a children's painting, one of the three named, will shortly be purchased to hang permanently in the Public Library. In that event two pictures may be purchased, as the association is prepared to acquire one.

Of the three paintings selected, one, the "Street in Bruges," a Higgins effort, was described last evening in the TRIBUNE'S "Daily Word-Copy." Tomorrow another of the three will be described in like manner, under that headline.

Art-Workers' Club

A sketching club, or perhaps on broader lines, an art workers' club, may be formed within the Art society of La Crosse. A meeting to perfect the club will be called for some evening next week, at the library, where the art exhibit will lend its inspiration.

There will be sketching, photography, china painting—in fact, work in all the arts and crafts. It is planned to use the library in winter and to work out of doors in summer. The more experienced will give their services as critics or instructors. Members who want to do things, to be active producers, are welcome to membership.

L. M. A. Roy has taken an active interest in the formation of the club, which is suggested by Director Dudley Crafts Watson during his visit to La Crosse as a lecturer before the art exhibit.

Already many interested persons have expressed a desire to join the club. Of them four or more will give instructions or criticisms along certain lines. Carl Rau, who paints well and whose photography has won him medals, will help along these lines. Mr. Roy, whose photography has won international recognition, offers his services in this direction; Mrs. Claude Pettigill, painter and art instructor, and Miss Angel, art instructor in the state normal school, will help beginners.

Others who will join, and who worked along some line of art, are: C. A. Loveland, artist of the Northern Engraving company; Mrs. T. H. Spence, whose painting is excellent; Otto Mueller; Miss Gertrude Tausche, whose jewelry engraving and sketching are admirable; President D. O. Coate; Miss Goetzmann; Henry Harincourt and Mrs. Kulchor, all of whom have done sketching and painting, and Layton Oyen, Howard Regat and Mr. Roach, whose cartoons have attracted attention.

FULLER IS NAMED STREET FOREMAN

George Fuller, blacksmith, 1717 Winnebago street, is the new street foreman in La Crosse to succeed Ed Glinesky, whose term has expired. Fuller was appointed this morning by Supervisor Hanson of the board of public works.

SUNDAY WAVES FLAG

PATERSON, N. J., April 30.—Waving a big American flag over his head, the gift of local admirers, Billy Sunday staged a George M. Cohan Old Glory act at his tabernacle last night. Surrounded by the Stars and Stripes, thousands marched down the "sawdust trail."

GERMAN FLEET 300 MILES FROM BASE DROPS SHELLS INTO CITY OF DUNKIRK?

Believed in Paris That German Ships are Light Cruisers Sent South to Aid Teutons in Their Drive to Calais

NEW YORK, April 30.—Despite the reports from Paris early today that Dunkirk had been shelled by German warships, there was doubt late this afternoon as to whether this was so or whether the shelling was by the great German 17 inch guns. Experts were inclined to believe that the latter might be the case. The German official wireless as received through Sayville, L. I., said that Dunkirk was shelled by German artillery. The French official statement said that German warships "had been seen off the Belgian coast" and that "large shells to the number of nineteen have fallen on Dunkirk."

The suggestion was made that because of the coupling of the two statements the German claim that it was its artillery that had caused the damage to Dunkirk was probably the actual solution. The close censorship on news on the other side made it impossible to get any news from Paris except the official communique.

The battle line is between seventeen and eighteen miles from Dunkirk.

PARIS, April 30.—The Germans have struck from the sea. Their warships, operating 300 miles from their base, have shelled the fortified city of Dunkirk. Nineteen shells are known to have fallen in the city. Twenty persons have been killed and forty-five wounded. Whether the bombardment is being continued or the hostile fleet is steaming south to shell Calais and other points on the French coast is not yet known, the government limiting the information so far made available to a brusque statement that German warships are off the Belgian coast.

Demand British Fleet

It is believed here that a demand already has been made on the British government to send ships to protect the French coast. Most of the new French warships are aiding the British forces in their operations in the Dardanelles. It had not been believed possible here that the Germans would take the chance of operating so far from their base of supplies and up until today's announcement was made everyone believed that the French coast was entirely safe.

It is believed here that the German warships were sent south to co-operate with the German army in the new drive against the French coast. The success of the British warships last fall in checking the first German drive with light draft monitors and cruisers is believed to have inspired the latest German move. It is believed here that the warships now off the Belgian coast are fast little cruisers of the type which raided the English coast during the winter.

FIGHTING QUINTET CONFESS ASSAULT AT GOLF GROUNDS

Leader of Gang Is Fined $30 and Others Pay Nominal Mulet for Mobbing Teachers

Following confessions late yesterday afternoon that they had ambushed and beaten A. R. Mitchell and C. J. Erickson, manual training instructors in the public schools, Raymond Allemand, Teddie Streik, Roy Turner, Fritz Groth and Harry Hanson pleaded guilty to charges of assault and battery before Judge John Brindley and were fined.

Roy Turner, confessed leader of the gang of five who attacked Mitchell and Erickson for no apparent cause was fined $30 and costs, and the other four were released upon the payment of fines of $5 each.

Harry Hanson confessed that he impersonated himself as a special policeman of the La Crosse Country club grounds, in which the attack took place.

Police Would Not Come

According to a statement of Mitchell, the police would at first have nothing to do with the affair. "At the first house we came to we telephoned," said Mitchell today, "and I told the officer at the desk at the police station just what had happened and that the five men who had attacked us were walking towards town together and could easily be captured, if they would come at once."

Mitchell says that the station sergeant told him he must have "papers" before anything could be done. The party then went to the police station together and reported the matter. Those in charge there then said they had heard nothing of the trouble. Mitchell says that the police then took up the hunt for his assailants.

Mitchell is suffering severely with a broken shoulder bone which he received in the rough and tumble fight and wrestling match with Turner. Erickson did not engage in the fight to the extent to which Mitchell did and was not so severely injured. The two young women, who accompanied them were insulted but not attacked.

EVERYBODY TO HELP KEEP LAWNS GREEN

Keep off the Grass! La Crosse is turning green with beautiful lawns and gardens today following a general campaign announced this morning to keep postmen, newsboys, deliverymen and agents of every kind off people's budding lawns.

Postmaster Olaf R. Skaar today issued an order to all carriers to be careful to "Keep off the Grass." Postmen hereafter must not cut across lawns to save a few steps but must keep to the sidewalks.

Otto W. Muenster, circulation manager of The TRIBUNE today issued similar instructions to his carriers and newsboys. They too will "Keep off the Grass."

Grocers and other merchants and agencies are asked to issue similar orders.

The TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

BREAD AND BUTTER

BY HOPE AINSLEE

Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Mary Jane Martin received the sum of $8 each week for her work in the circulation department of a magazine office. The magazine publishers were also publishers of subscription books and Mary Jane's work was the advertising of envelopes and other simple, unskilled clerical tasks.

She lived at home with her mother and three smaller children on a tiny farm on the outskirts of the city. Her carfare was twenty cents a day, so that in the six days of the week she spent a large percentage of her wages to get to and from the office. She brought her lunch with her and as she sat alone during the noon hour eating her home-made meal she was always trying to conceive of a plan by which she could add to her week's earnings.

One rainy day she offered to share her lunch with one of the girls who had a cold and did not want to go out of doors.

"Oh, Mary Jane Martin who makes that bread?" the girl asked when she had tasted one of the bread and butter sandwiches.

"Sometimes my mother makes it; sometimes I do," replied Mary Jane, modestly. She had never known any other bread herself.

"I think I'd bring my lunch, too, if I could have bread like that," the girl went on.

"We make the butter, too," Mary Jane said. "We have two cows, and mother makes butter for two rich neighbors, who call for it. We sell a little milk, and in summer we have garden greens, so we manage to make the place almost pay for itself with the help of my money."

Mary Jane confided to her companion.

"Why couldn't you bring me a lunch every day, with this heavenly bread and butter, and I'd give you my fifteen cents instead of to the restaurant cashier?" asked the girl.

"I never tasted anything so good."

Mary Jane began to think. "Why not?" she asked. "Perhaps I could, and it would help to pay my carfare, wouldn't it?"

"Sure it would. Is it a go?" asked the girl, beginning on another piece of bread and butter.

"I'll try it and see how you like it. I always enjoy my lunches, myself," replied Mary Jane. "Mother's cook is fine."

Thereafter Mary Jane brought two lunches, and it was not many weeks until she was bringing a large wicker suitcase full of lunch boxes from her home every day. One by one the girls had been given tastes of the home-made food, and one by one they had joined Mary Jane's lunch club.

Once a week they had a piece of chicken; once a week some home-made crullers, home-made cake, cookies, pie made from the home-grown fruits, and often deviled eggs from the home poultry yard.

Mary Jane would sit up after supper and arrange as much as she could of the lunches for the following morning, and in the morning she and her mother would spread the bread and pack the boxes.

The $1.50 each day that she collected from the girls made enough profit to pay her carfare, and Mary Jane was happy.

"Mary Jane, couldn't you bring one extra box for me every day?" asked a little girl who had been a member of the lunch club for a couple of weeks.

Mary Jane laughed. "But you can't eat another," she protested. "I'll make yours bigger if you like."

"Oh, no, no, no!" laughed the girl in turn. "I want it for my brother, who works on the next street. I've told him of mine, and once in a while I've carried home a little. He's crazy about that home-made bread, and says he'll call for it every day if you'll make one for him."

"Of course," Mary Jane replied. "I'd love to."

John Henderson called at the office where his sister and Mary Jane worked every day at five minutes past twelve. And every day when he took the box from his sister he tried to get a glimpse of Mary Jane. He had met her on the first day, but since then the girl had never thrust herself into his presence as had so many of the girls whom his sister knew.

One day he asked his sister for Mary Jane. "Why—she's always here, of course, John. Shall I call her?"

John nodded. "I like that girl, but she's shy. I won't bite her. Tell her that for me, Cora," he said, as he left.

"All right. I'll see that she gives you your box tomorrow. So long. You should worry, John," his sister laughed as he pushed the elevator button.

Mary Jane, at the earnest insistence of Cora Henderson, handed

John his lunch on the following day.

"What's the reason you can't come out with me and have an ice cream soda?" he asked.

"Oh—there isn't time after you eat your lunch," Mary Jane protested.

"Plenty of time. I can't talk to you with all of those girls rubbering and kidding us," he said.

"Wouldn't it be better if you and Cora would come out to our house on Saturday afternoon and meet mother?"

John made a move as if to faint. "Oh, say that would be the best, but it wasn't up to me to suggest that, was it?"

"Maybe not," Mary Jane admitted. The following Saturday John and Cora Henderson took the trip to the Martin farm and spent such an afternoon and evening as they had seldom spent before in all their tenement-house existence.

Cora, having no mother of her own, fell in love with Mary Jane's mother and immediately made herself at home with the children and the work. She helped to churn, she helped to set the sponge that night for the Sunday morning rolls, she enjoyed every minute of her visit.

And John could see nothing but Mary Jane. He had learned to believe that she was the only girl for him, and was looking forward to the time when he could support her and ask her to marry him.

"Are you sure it wasn't my bread and butter that you loved first?" asked Mary Jane when he told her of his hopes some weeks later.

"It may have been, but the bread and butter ain't one-two-three now with you, Mary Jane," he said earnestly.

"It may have been, but the bread and butter ain't one-two-three now with you, Mary Jane," he said earnestly.

Daddy's Bedtime

Story—

How Letters Came to Be Invented.

How People Used to Learn to Make Marks That Make Words.

"WHEN you go away on your trip, daddy, I am going to write you a letter," said Evelyn. "I can write pretty well now, mamma says."

"So can I," cried Jack, "and I am going to write you a letter, too, daddy."

"That will be very nice, children," agreed daddy, "and I hope both your letters will reach me."

"Why don't letters always reach people?" asked Jack.

"Almost always," answered daddy. "But sometimes they get lost somewhere, and then people worry. A letter is a very wonderful thing, children."

"Wise men have wondered a great deal how people used to learn to make the marks that make words which form a letter that speaks to you just as if it had a voice. You know what I mean, children. It is like that when I read to you out of a book. It is as if the book were talking to you, isn't it?"

"Indeed it is, daddy," agreed Evelyn. "And you can really see it with your eyes when the book is telling it to you."

"That is the gift of imagination, children," said daddy, "and it must have been through this gift that people learned to write long ago, so that when they could not see and talk with each other they could make these marks and let the marks do the talking for them."

"But the first writing wasn't much as it is now. It wasn't writing at all, in fact. The wise men have found on great big piles of stone built over in Egypt—the land that Moses led the children of Israel from, you remember—rude pictures of birds and animals done ever so long before Moses lived and cut into the stone. And the wise men say that this was the first attempt of men to write. You see, they couldn't write words about the birds and animals because they didn't know how, so they just tried to make pictures. And later they learned how to write words about the pictures."

"In the time of the Old Testament they would write on long sheets called parchment, which was rolled and which kept the history of the people. In the time of the Romans they used to have tablets of wax and would cut words on the wax with a sharp instrument and send these out for letters."

"The Indians of our own country when they wanted to send word to other tribes of coming battles and other news would mark it on strips of birch bark in the form of pictures and send couriers to run with it through the forest paths to the chiefs. Then the chiefs would know what was going to happen and would get ready."

How to Avoid Wearing Ugly False Teeth

It's positively distressing the way some folks allow their teeth to gradually fade away—become broken, elongated, twisted, protruding. It makes people backward, often morbid. Most tooth affections come from microbes. These tiny, unseen organisms bore into the hard enamel under the shelter of brown or pale yellow spots. Grit and tartar get between the enamel and the gums, causing bleeding, sore, sensitive teeth. Then come loosened teeth, gum boils, gum separation. Your tongue easily rocks the teeth.

You can avoid the necessity to pull out your teeth, or fill them with disgusting gold or porcelain, if you will get from your druggist about four ounces of fluid organ, merely putting a teaspoonful in your mouth morning, noon and night, throwing it out after a minute or so. The microbes in the nooks and crannies are washed out, destroyed; the hard substances foreign to the teeth are dissolved, gums will be clean and rosy, harden in the gums—loose teeth your fingers—and your own white of the teeth appears when the yellow spots are washed away. The disease disappears.

CAN'T BEAT "TIZ" WHEN FEET HURT

"TIZ" for sore, tired, puffed-up, aching, calloused feet or corns.

"Sure! I use 'TIZ' every time for any foot trouble."

You can be happy-footed just like me. Use "TIZ" and never suffer with tender, raw, burning, blistered, swollen, tired, smelly feet. "TIZ" and only "TIZ" takes the pain and soreness out of corns, callouses and bunions.

As soon as you put your feet in a "TIZ" bath, you just feel the happiness soaking in. How good your poor, old feet feel. They want to dance for joy. "TIZ" is grand.

"TIZ" instantly draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up your feet and cause sore, inflamed, aching, sweaty, smelly feet.

Get a 25 cent box of "TIZ" at any drug store or department store. Get instant foot relief. Laugh at foot sufferers who complain. Because your feet are never, never going to bother or make you limp any more, stamp, as under that system the university had attained great success, but he was emphatic in his assertion that such a board should be absolutely free from any one man's domination.

Patience and Despair.

There is no calamity so great that it cannot be made a little lighter by patience, or a great deal heavier by despair.

NEURALGIC PAINS

These may be felt in any nerve of the body but are most frequent in the nerves of the head. Neuralgia may be caused by a decayed tooth, eye-strain or a diseased ear, but the most common cause is general debility accompanied by anemia or thin blood.

For this reason women who work too hard or dance too much and who do not get sufficient rest, sleep and fresh air, are the most frequent sufferers from neuralgia and sciatica, which is neuralgia of the sciatic nerve.

Nutrition for the nerves is the correct treatment for neuralgia and the only way to nourish the nerves is through the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills supply to the blood just the elements it needs to increase its capacity to carry nourishment to starved nerves. They have proved helpful in so many cases of neuralgia and sciatica that any sufferer from these troubles is fully justified in giving these pills a trial. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain no harmful or habit-forming drugs and may be taken for any length of time with perfect safety.

The pamphlet "Diseases of the Nervous System" is free to you if you mention this paper. Address: The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

WAUSAU EDITOR DENIES THE STORY OF SPOONER'S RETURN

J. L. Sturdevant Says Former Senator Will not Fight for University Although Opposed to Spoiling Usefulness

WAUSAU, Wis., April 30.—"Senator John C. Spooner has no intention of coming to take up the cudgels in behalf of the present university regime," today said J. L. Sturdevant, editor of the Record-Herald, who was in New York last week and had an interview with the senator.

"Mr. Spooner was surprised when he heard that such a statement had gone forth, as in his talk before the Alumni Association of New York, the first of the month, he had expressly stated that, having known Governor Philipp for a great many years, he had no fear that the governor would permit, much less advocate, any action which would in any way hamper or impair the usefulness of the university." Mr. Spooner expressed confidence in the government of the university by the board of regents, provided the personnell of the board was up to the standard of former years, with men of the William F. THE MESSAGE OF THE PAINTINGS

To the thousands of people who have attended the art exhibit during the past two days there will seem no need of printed words to extol it. The thing has been splendid, and they all know it by art's own appeal better than it can be conveyed in written language. The evidence is emotion that carries conviction to mind and soul. The greatness and exquisite beauty of it all is felt, experienced. To possess it is a personal privilege of those who enter the charmed presence of the paintings, to breathe the freshness of spring and know the glory of autumn in the landscapes, to move in the joy of their mornings and rest in the calm of their evenings.

Director Watson characterizes the exhibit as one of the best in quality, taste and variety—one of the best balanced and highest average of genius he has seen. This is fortunate for La Crosse, and it is appreciated. The director estimates that in his two days in this city he discussed the canvases before 6,000 people. The stamp of a genuinely big enterprise has been placed upon the exhibit.

The pictures are still there—will be there until May eighth. Every day, morning, noon and night, they are open to the public. The exhibit is FREE. People who have learned to love the art galleries travel hundreds of miles to see such exhibits. The hope is planted deep within us that every man, woman and child in La Crosse will see the pictures. It is no "high brow" show. It is democratic—for everybody. Come in from the Twentieth ward, come from the northernmost ward, bring the children. Come, day, come evening; come from work, in working clothes. In this place of true art people are as equal as in the cradle and the grave. Art is the speech of the soul, which knows neither station nor class. Art speaks to the spirit, and cares not for the garb of the being that responds to its appeal. See these pictures, and be sure that the children see them. They bear messages of peace and happiness for everyone.

PASS THE BILL TO STOP TIPPING

There are portions of the argument upon which Governor Philipp based his veto of the anti-tipping bill that seem to stand the shock of the rejoinder. His point that the law could not be enforced is probably true.

However, the law would not fall into the class with Sunday closing and the anti-cigarette law. There is this distinct difference between the Bosshard law and the two just cited: a majority of people are against Sunday closing and the anti-cigarette law, while a majority of people favor the anti-tipping law.

In other words, given the law as an excuse to get away from a custom which they dislike, a majority of travelers will cease tipping, even though the wealthier minority may successfully ignore the law.

Under present conditions a majority of travelers, therefore, give tips, and with the practice so general it is easy for the beneficiaries of the system to discriminate against the non-tipping minority. But they cannot successfully discriminate against a majority, and when the non-tipping public becomes the majority, that majority will receive fair service.

The governor's conclusion that a man has a constitutional right to employ tips, on the ground that they are either gifts or pay for additional services, seems unsound. Tips are bribes and they purchase discriminations. The demand for them is a hold-up by which certain institutions compel the public to pay salaries to employees for services for which these institutions already have been compensated.

The assembly should join the senate in passing the law over the governor's veto.

THE LIMIT NOT ENOUGH

Unprovoked assaults of the kind perpetrated on high school teachers should be punished to the limit of the law. Jail sentences should be imposed. The cowardice and brutality of the attack was the more dastardly because of the presence of the young women. It was they who were abused. Had the men been alone, they would not have been molested. There is a depravity, perhaps a degeneracy of which the instinct is to assault women, and the fury of the assailant increases in proportion to the purity of the women, the degree of her exaltation above the dastard whom her fineness provokes. Again the spectre of the late lamented whipping post haunts us with its wistful plea.

He Wanted It Decided
"Ma! ma!" bawled Freddy as the usual morning wash was going on. "Do my ears belong to my face or my neck?"

Ma temporized. "Why, what is the matter?" she asked.

"I want it decided now. Every time you tell Mary to wash my face she washes my ears too."

A Ruse that Worked
"Why won't you buy something at my table?" demanded the girl at the charity fair.

"Because," said the smooth-tongued youth, "I buy only from homely girls. They have a so much harder time making sales."

And he worked this right down the line.

A Cry from Bondage
I'm sittin' here in school—I got to study my arithmetic. But all this mornin' I have thought O, how it looks now down the crick.

From where I sit I see the trees In Merritt's orchard out in bloom, An' I most hear the honey bees A-laughin' 'cause I'm in this room.

Who is that barefoot in the road, A-carryin' his fishin' pole? It's Skinny Jones! I might 'a' knowed

He'd started out for the old Blue Hole. He's climbin' over Merritt's fence An' strikin' through the orchard now.

Why does the grass an' things come mence To grow fore school's out any-how?

Now he's out in the pasture lot, An' he's huntin' down I understand. I'll bet a nickel Skinny's got Some Johnny-Jump-ups in his hand.

I wouldn't be a bit surprised If he goes down and takes a swim— This school I always have de-spised; I wish 'twas me instead of him!

Now he's gone back behind th' woods, An' pretty soon he'll cross the field Where Hinson's cows all chew their cud;

He'll have a willow twig he's peeled Until it's slick, to string his fish. That barefoot Skinny Jones is free. I wish— But what's the good to wish?

My folks is educatin' me!

My hair has got to be kep' curled— What, teacher? Mom? I heard you, yes.

Who was it found this here new world? Why, Barefoot Skinny Jones, I guess!

Two Kinds

"Pa," said Johnny, "what is a bookworm?"

"A bookworm," said pa, "is a person who would rather read than eat, or a worm that would rather eat than read."

Very Sad to Hear

"I heard," said a mistress to her servant, in explanation of her not feeling well, as the girl commented upon her mistress's appearance.

"Well," said the girl, "I can feel for you, ma'am. I heard something sad this morning, too."

"You did?" asked the mistress. "Pray tell me what was it?"

"The alarm clock, ma'am."

Beginning Early

Little sister had not been well and had been especially trying to small Johnny all day. Finally his patience came to an end.

"Mother," he asked, "don't you want Little Sister to be a good wife like you when she grows up?"

"Of course," said his mother.

"Well, you make me give everything to her 'cause she's littler'n me. But you're littler'n father, and when he comes home you say: 'Here's your slippers and magazine, dear.'—and before his mother could move, Johnny tore his train of cars from the screaming baby."

"If we don't begin to train her she'll be a terrible wife," he said as he slammed the door.

A Good Definition

"Charles," said the teacher, "do you know what the word 'celerity' means?"

"Yes, m," said Charles. "It's something you put hot plates down with."

It Meant the Same Thing

"Well," she inquired, "what can I do for you? Do you want employment?"

"Lady," replied the tramp, "you means well, but you can't make work sound any more invitin' by using words of three syllables."

Where She Could Plunge

An old Yankee who runs a small summer hotel on the coast once received a letter from a prospective "guest" who wrote to engage "two large sunny rooms with private bath."

One may imagine the lady's surprise at getting the following curt reply:

"Dear Madam: All rooms face the ocean and that's your bath."

Getting Some Results

One day Luther Burbank was walking in his garden, when he was accosted by an officious acquaintance who said:

"Well, what are you working on now?"

"Trying to cross an eggplant and milkweed," said Mr. Burbank.

"And what under heaven do you expect to get from that?"

Mr. Burbank calmly resumed his walk.

Restorative Treatment for Nervous Men

Coming from a source of unquestioned authority on the ailments of men it is presumed to be infallible, while the profession generally endorses the ingredients and prescribe them in many different forms of various diseases. The following formula is highly efficient in quickly restoring in nervous exhaustion, melancholia, anxiety, timidity in venturing, dizziness, heart palpitation, trembling limbs, insomnia, thinness, cold extremities, tired-all in feeling and general inability to do those natural and rational acts upon which depends a man's success and happiness in social and everyday life.

The instructions for mixing at home secretly so that no embarrassment may be felt, are as follows: First get three ounces of syrup sarsaparilla compound and one ounce compound fluid balmwort; mix and let stand two hours. Then add one ounce compound essence cardiol and one ounce tincture cadomene compound (not cardamom), and mix all together. The directions are to take one teaspoonful after each meal and one when retiring, until bounding health and full strength are restored. Even a few weeks will witness most wonderful results.

Astonishing nervous force and equilibrium follow the treatment, no matter how serious the case.

This contains no opiates whatever and may also be used by women who suffer with their nerves with absolute certainty of prompt and lasting benefits.

CHAPTER XVII.

The End of Ramadan.

On the outskirts of Sidi-Abbes half a dozen Arabs stood and waited patiently. They had stood on the same spot since the hour of sunset, watching the pale emerald change to deepest sapphire and had neither moved nor spoken to one another. In their spotless burmooses they had looked like statues placed there as sentinels over the gaily lighted, bustling town behind them. Now, as slowly, gracefully, the thin circle of the new moon rose above the distant line of palms, the foremost Arab bowed himself to the ground.

"The fast is over. Praise be to Allah, the all-merciful."

An hour passed and he still knelt there, as though absorbed in silent passionate communion with his God. His companions remained upright, their dark mysterious eyes watching the silvery crescent as she glided on her journey upward toward her zenith. From the distance there came the dull regular thud of horse's hoofs on the sandy soil. It drew nearer. Like muffled thunder it rolled down upon them, and the speck of rapidly moving darkness which darted out of the southern grove of palm raced on in reckless, panic-stricken flight as from an unseen enemy. The Arabs glanced at one another and drew back on either side. A moment later a spahi, mounted on a foam-flecked, blood-stained horse, which reeled in its gallop, burst through their midst and swept on toward the gates of the fortifications. As he passed he had dragged himself up in his saddle and whirled his flint-lock in a semicircle about his head.

"Ramazan is over!" he gasped. "Ouled Nail has risen!"

The last words were lost in the swirl of wind which clung to his horse's heels. The half a dozen Arabs turned their glance for a last time to the sky. Behind the brooding, impenetrable gravity there burned up a controlled half-smiling exultation. Then, still silent, they dispersed swiftly in the direction of the town.

Once past the sentries, the spahi turned into one of the quieter avenues leading to the barracks. He had not decreased his speed and his horse's hoofs struck a metallic, omi-

That was all. His voice, roused for that brief moment in the strength of a reborn happiness, passed like a ripple on the face of the deep silence. Very gently she slipped the long cloak from her shoulders and laid it over him. He did not move. The long-drawn-out seconds became minutes, the minutes—hours. One by one the great host of watchers above them flashed out, leaving a blank waste of darkness. A chill wind, sand-laden from the south, brushed against her face. Still she knelt there, with the man's unconscious head against her knees, her eyes fixed in proud strong patience on the western sky, where slowly, almost imperceptibly, the dawn was breaking. In all the glory of re-awakened life the pale-gold heralds of the morning rose above the distant horizon and gathering warmth and deeper fire as they swept the desert, broke in one mingled flood against the topmost minarets, which glowed back in splendid answer. The bivouac fires had long since died out, and the sickly ghost of night crept back into the groves of olive. From the high tower of the mosque a white-robed figure greeted the One God in solemn thanksgiving—

"Holiness to Thee, O God, praise be to Thee. Great is Thy name!"

Then came the gay joyous call of a bugle and the clatter of arms.

The woman rose slowly to her feet. She stood for a moment facing the grandeur of rising light; then she bent down, and with swift strong hands bound the unresisting figure into a semblance of its first helplessness. Stern indignation blazed in her eyes as she lifted them for a moment, but she neither flinched nor hesitated. Only as a stifled groan broke from the bloodless lips she bent down and kissed him.

"Forgive me, God bless you, dear."

nous music out of the cobbled roadway. Colonel Destin heard it. He had been seated at his writing-table, turning over some old letters; but he now rose quickly and threw open the long windows which looked out on the pleasant stretch of garden. He listened. The quick, staccato beat died away in the distance, and after a moment he returned thoughtfully to his former place beneath the lamplight. Evidently the yellow letters spread out before him had not been touched for many years, for they were rimmed with dust, and the edges where the string had held them together were frayed and torn. Destin turned them over with idle fingers, his eyes picking out a word here and there, while he smiled in ironical amusement—whether inspired by what he read or over his own thoughts, could not be told. In a smaller bundle, which he snapped open with ruthless fingers, there were a couple of old-fashioned photographs. He glanced at them and tossed them aside, face downward. Then he got up again, as though goaded by a moment's physical pain or by some stifled impatience. The gilt French clock on the table chimed a sweet-voiced reminder of the hour. Destin glanced round him seeking the shadows. It seemed that another sound had caught his attention, for he went back again to the window and stood with his hand on the clasp, his head bent. Outside everything was quiet. The dull red light poured out from the room behind him, flooded a bush of jasmine, which glowed against the darkness beyond like a fairy castle, and a fragrance, nameless and heavy with all the dreams of an eastern night, hung over the sleeping garden.

Colonel Destin lifted his head suddenly.

"Are you there?"

There was no answer. But something rustled—something white flashed out from between the trees and came gliding hurriedly toward him.

"Sylvia!" he muttered.

She almost flung herself into his arms, clinging to him with a child's panic, and for the moment that he held her their shadows were sharp cut against the light. Then he half dragged, half carried her into the room and closed the windows. There were heavy curtains on either side, and he dragged them across. Save for the soft jingles of his spurs and her own quick breathing there was no sound. He came back to her and drew her veil from her white face.

"Where have you come from?"

"From the Cercle. Desire left me. I don't know where he went to—but I ran here."

"Ran?"

"I dare not use the carriage. I can trust no one."

"I have watched five nights for you."

"I knew. It has been awful—the temptation, the fear, the uncertainty. Every night I tried to make up my mind one way or another, but I couldn't. It seemed to have lost hold. Oh!"—her white baby hands clutched at his doorman in helpless despair—"oh, what have you done—what have you done?"

"I have fallen in love—that is all."

Don't Poison Baby.

Forty years ago almost every mother thought her child must have PAREGORIC or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and a FEW DROPS TOO MANY will produce the SLEEP FROM WHICH THERE IS NO WAKING. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labelling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children without you or your physician know of what it is composed. CASTORIA DOES NOT CONTAIN NARCOTICS, if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

"Whys" of Moves in European War

BY J. W. T. MASON
NEW YORK, April 30.—Simultaneously with the opening of the land campaign against Constantinople, a determined effort has begun in England to compel the resignation of Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty. The failure of the naval attack against the Dardanelles

Acute Articular Rheumatism

The exact cause of rheumatism is unknown, though it is generally believed to be due to an excess of uric acid in the blood. It may be also said with equal truth that no remedy has been found which is a specific in all cases. In fact the literature of rheumatism shows that there are but few drugs which have not been given a trial. In the hands of one observer we find that a certain drug has been used with the utmost satisfaction; others have found the same remedy to be a great disappointment. All physicians however agree that every method of treatment is aided by the administration of some remedy to relieve the pain and quiet the nervous system and Dr. W. S. Schultze expresses the opinion of thousands of practitioners when he says that Anti-Kamnia Tablets should be given preference over all other remedies for the relief of the pain in all forms of rheumatism. These tablets can be purchased in any quantity. They are also unsurpassed in headaches, neuralgias and all pain. Ask for A-K Tablets.

Worth While Quotation.

"If you mean to act nobly, and seek to know the best things which God hath put within the reach of men, you must fix your mind on that end, and not what will happen to you because of it."—George Eliot.

defenses is given as the ostensible reason for Mr. Churchill's unpopularity; but, as a matter of fact, the real cause is cumulative and relates to popular disappointment over many incidents during the past nine months.

Nevertheless, the fact that London newspapers should begin at this precise moment to say publicly what saying privately have long been indicative of a feeling of pessimism concerning the success of the present land operations in the Levant. If an early victory were anticipated, the recent blunder of the admiralty would not be held up to scorn.

Indeed, suggestions, scarcely veiled, are appearing in the British press, that the Constantinople campaign will be long and tedious, and success is not accepted as certain.

This attitude, of course, is partly accounted for by the disappointment that followed the high expectations aroused when the first Dardanelles bombardment began nine weeks ago. But, it may also be caused by secretly circulated knowledge that the British war office is taking chances with an inferior force of men. This, indeed, is the great thing to the allied cause. There have been so many disastrous miscalculations last August and so frequently has the power of the enemy been underestimated that an uneasy feeling must prevail to some extent lest the land operations against the Turks be undertaken too adventurously.

If the British people are still resolved that the war shall not end until the Germans are driven out of France and Belgium, then the Constantinople campaign must be regarded doubtfully as an uncertain affair, dangerously weakening the allied offensive in the west. But, the British government itself may now have concluded that the Germans eventually will give up northern France and Belgium to ransom their blockaded foreign territory. Under this circumstance and this only will enough troops be sent to Turkey to make the fall of Constantinople highly probable. But with the government keeping its opinion secret and with directors of British public opinion attacking the first lord of the admiralty, there is unquestionably more anxiety in England now than at any other time since the war began.

Johnny's Distinction.

"Dear sir," wrote the anxious mother, "I am afraid Johnny is not trying enough." "Dear Madam," replied the harassed teacher, "I assure you that Johnny is trying enough. He is the most trying boy in the class."—Stray Stories.

CARE OF THE TEETH

The mouth is the great intake of the body and a number of diseases are introduced with our drink and food and the air we breathe. To maintain good health one must take proper care of all organs which contribute to the preservation of life; and a healthy and well cared for mouth is one of the best safeguards against disease.

The temporary teeth. The child at the age of 2½ years should have as many teeth as it has fingers and toes. The child gets the first baby tooth when it is about six months old; the lower teeth precede the upper and the incisor or front teeth come through first.

At this period the gums are swollen and very much inflamed, the child often peevish, fretful and ill. Excessive flow of saliva and disturbances of the digestive system are sometimes present; trouble with the bowels and convulsions may occur. These symptoms may be benefited by timely lancing of the gums, always under the advice of the attending physician or dentist.

Following are the periods of appearance of the temporary teeth:

Four central incisors, 8th to 10th month; four lateral incisors, 7th to 9th month; four first molars, 14th to 16th month; four cuspids, 16th to 18th month; four second molars, 20th to 24th month.

These figures are only approximately correct; the time may vary and the teeth be six or more months delayed and no ill effects follow.

The permanent teeth come through in the following order:

First molars, 6th year; central incisors, 6th to 8th year; lateral incisors, 7th to 8th year; first bicuspids, 10th year; second bicuspids, 11th year; cuspids, 11th year; second molars, 12th year; third molars, 18th to 30th year.

The first permanent tooth to come through is a molar or chewing tooth, just back of the temporary molars. This tooth, in common with all permanent molars, comes but once and belongs to the permanent set. Many parents think it is a temporary tooth of little value and it is allowed to decay. The parent should insist on an examination of the child's mouth by a dentist at this important time; decay of this tooth is often early, and unknown until the child complains of severe toothache.

Irregular teeth. If the temporary teeth are extracted or if they are decayed and chewing is painful and therefore neglected, the jaws do not properly develop properly. The extraction of the permanent molar (six year molar) is also a frequent cause of irregular teeth, as the next incoming tooth pushes forward and occupies the space left by the removal, causing loss of needed masticating or chewing surfaces, adding to the difficulty of keeping the mouth clean by allowing food to lodge and decay.

With an undeveloped jaw, the middle third of the case ceases to grow and troubles of the nose, throat and ear present themselves in later life, seemingly unrelated to the proper care of the mouth at this early age. For this reason, if no other, the first teeth should be retained until the permanent ones are ready to take their places. Irregular teeth can be corrected by a skillful dentist, but this takes much time, is expensive and painful. Proper care of the temporary teeth will avoid this unnecessary expense, pain and suffering.

Care of the teeth. A well cared for mouth is a mark of well being and refinement. A clean mouth is an index to character; it is of more importance to girls than fancy hair ribbons or good clothes and the boy whose teeth are clean and not allowed to decay is oftentimes preferred for employment.

If we use our teeth to thoroughly chew our food, and it is not bolted in haste, and the saliva is allowed to do its part in digestion, the surfaces of the teeth are polished, old accumulations of food are removed and they assume a tone of healthiness born of use. Idle teeth and chewing muscles mean decayed teeth and impaired chewink force.

The mouth and teeth should be carefully brushed after each meal, also on arising and, most important of all, they should be cleaned before going to bed, as during the sleeping hours the tongue and fluids of the mouth are not assisting to keep the teeth clean. Tooth powder should be used at least once a day. A good receipt for a tooth powder that can be put up by a druggist at a very small expense, is as follows:

Powdered precipitated chalk, two ounces; Powdered castile soap, one-half ounce; powdered orris root, one dram.

The tooth brush. The bristles should be of medium hardness and so shaped that they will not get between the teeth. An efficient brush is one that can be moved easily in all directions. The process of brushing must begin at the gums to remove all deposits of mucus and to massage the gums, thus causing an increased circulation of blood. Upper teeth should be brushed toward the cutting edge; lower teeth from the gums upward. It is not intended that this brushing across the teeth be entirely abandoned, but the best work of the tooth brush is performed in brushing up and down, instead of across the teeth. Brush the inner surfaces as thoroughly as those in sight.

Walls Made Washable

"I like kalsomine effects, but I want a wall finish that can be cleaned or washed."

This is a frequent inquiry at our store because the up-to-date housekeeper demands a sanitary finish that doesn't need replacing every year.

BRITISH ARMY IS NOT T. ATKINS BUT JOHN BULL

Professional English Soldier Lost in Thousands of Volunteers Who Have Come to Colors

BY WILLIAM G. SHEPHERD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
(Copyright, 1915, by United Press.)
(Copyrighted in Great Britain.)
HEADQUARTERS OF THE BRITISH ARMY, IN NORTHERN FRANCE, April 18.—(By Mail to New York.)—This is not Tommy Atkins; it's John Bull.

The minute you begin to rub elbows with the English army you make this discovery.

Tommy Atkins, the professional English soldier, is not here apparently. John Bull is the every day English citizen and he seems to be around here in hundreds of thousands. Tommy Atkins is the soldier that Kipling sings about, John Bull has never been sung about.

Take any one of your younger neighbors—a lawyer, a street car conductor, a real estate man, a clerk, quiet fellows who stay at home on summer evenings and squirt the lawn or weed the garden—and I'll go out on the streets of this headquarters town and find his counterpart for you within five minutes. He's carrying a gun and wearing khaki. Or I'll find him for you lying under a wooden cross in one of the field cemeteries near by, his part of the job he came out to do well and nobly finished.

There's a thrill about being with the English army that no American can miss. These hundreds upon hundreds of thousands of men are volunteers; every man jack of them sat down and thought it all out for himself before he went to the recruiting office and asked for a place in the army.

Don't believe these stories that he is always singing "Tipperary" and that he's always ready for a fight or frolic. There's no frolic about it and very little music. He came out here to fight and he's in dead serious earnest. This is a serious job, just like his peace time duty; the frolic and the music may come after the job is done.

The thrill that an American gets, rubbing elbows with this volunteer English army, comes with the knowledge that there are only two great powers in the world that have the voluntary military system, Great Britain and the United States.

REGENTS FAVOR STEVENS POINT BEFORE SOLONS

MADISON, Wis., April 30.—(Special.)—Forceful arguments against the repeal of the $100,000 appropriation made two years ago for a dormitory at the Stevens Point normal school were presented to the assembly committee on education Thursday afternoon by normal school representatives. The bill by Assemblyman Leifman to repeal the grant was introduced as an economy measure. Those who appeared against it were Normal Regent George N. Nelson and President John F. Sims of Stevens Point, Normal Regent Clough Gates and President V. E. McCaskill of Superior, Regent Mrs. H. E. Youmans of Waukesha, and Dr. Elizabeth Allison, medical adviser for normal school women, and others.

Dr. Allison made a plea for the dormitory as a means of giving new teachers what she called their best asset—a well body, a sane mind and right habits.

TEN MILLIONS FOR BUCKET SHOPPERS

This Is Stock Exchange Estimate of 1915 Profits to Be Made by the Bucket Traders

NEW YORK, April 30.—Ten million dollars is what the bucket shops in the United States will make this year if they continue at the present rate. This estimate is based on an investigation by a special committee of the New York Stock exchange, which gave the facts to the United Press today. Over $100,000 has been spent by the Exchange in collecting information about bucket shop operations in the last few years.

Last year the profits of bucket shops totalled over $7,000,000. This represents more than the combined profits of the eleven hundred members of the New York Stock exchange for 1914. In that year 48,631,833 shares changed hands on the New York board and the bucket shops did a business far in excess of this amount.

Most of the money gathered in by the bucket shops represents the savings of people of moderate means, the stock exchange committee found. People of considerable money rarely invest in stocks except on expert advice. Usually bucket shop investors buy "unlisted" securities and the bucketers find it easier to juggle the prices of these stocks than the regular listed shares.

The committee holds also that when a man buys stocks in a bucket shop he is deprived of the legitimate influence on the stock market that his transaction should have. This is the chief evil of the bucket shop in the opinion of the Stock exchange.

DANIELS PICKS MAN OF ACTION FOR HEAD

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Deep significance was seen here today in Secretary Daniels' remark that, out of thirty-eight years' service, Captain W. S. Benson, new naval chief of operations, has spent only two months in Washington. The conclusion was that, in picking Benson over the heads of officers who practically ran the navy for years, Daniels took pains to make his choice outside the capital's navy "social set," all along strongly antagonistic to him.

ROADS REQUIRED TO TELL LAND GRANTS

WASHINGTON, April 30.—The Interstate Commerce committee has called on all common carriers to report all gifts, donations and land grants to themselves from the federal or state, county or municipal governments, corporations, associations or individuals, or to previous operators of their lines, conditions of gifts, and in case of land grants, all money received from sale of the land. The order is in connection with enforcement of the valuation act of 1913.

CHIEF TASK OF AIRMEN IS TO TAKE MAP PHOTOS OF HOSTILE TRENCHES

DROPPING BOMBS AND FIGHTING ARE LEAST OF WORK

Pictures They Snap Reveal Concentrations of the Troops and Changes in Earthworks

BY WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS (United Press Staff Correspondent) WITH THE FRENCH ARMY, April 14.—(By Mail to New York, April 20).—The French flying corps is more than anything else the "eyes of the army." With the enormous front which the French have taken unto themselves to guard, their task would be almost impossible were it not for the aeroplane and the aviators.

The aviator has many duties to perform but the least important of them is to attack the enemy. Map-making is perhaps his most important function.

Just step inside the general's office—this war, you know, is being run from offices just as a factory is—and you will see in a minute how it is all done.

Maps are Photographs

On the general's desk, a regular desk like a broker's, you see a pile of photographs. These were made by aviators using special cameras and are enlarged. You see white lines running hither and yon across the picture. Other lines are zigzaggy. Some start nowhere while some go squirming completely across the paper.

Now look on the wall. There you see the same map on a large scale. Every tree, highway, river, brook, hill, wood, bridge or railway is clearly shown there. But the zigzaggy lines are not. They have been made since the big map was prepared a year ago. They are the hostile trenches or German works of some sort.

Keep Plans to Date

Aided by the photographs a corps of draughtsmen are kept busy at various corps and army headquarters making ground plans showing every trench built or under construction, by the enemy, as well as their own. These plans are drawn to exact scale and are kept strictly up to date.

Of course the aviators do other things, like dropping bombs on ammunition depots, or convoys, or army headquarters and occasionally they engage in a duel among the clouds, but it does not require a military expert to realize how much more important his more prosaic picture taking and map-making work really is.

Picture Reveal Secrets

The pictures many times give information which the enemy is doing his best to keep secret. The photos of a number of villages are made, for instance, and in one of them in particular, there are signs of considerably more activity than usual. Other photos of the same village are made, with the interval hours apart and it is discovered that troops are arriving or departing; that many convoys are stationed there; that reserve troops or the like are there. In short, it is learned that the village has become a troop center.

CUPID DOESN'T LIKE NEW EUGENIC LAWS WEDDINGS DROP OFF

Monthly Report of Registrar Thompson Shows Decline in Birth Rate and Also in Deaths

That "Cupid" and the eugenic law, compelling all males to be examined before marriage, are not good friends was again shown today by the statistical report issued by Andrew E. Thompson, registrar of deeds.

Cupid made thirty-two trips to La Crosse during the month of March, 1915. Last year during March he visited the county only seventeen times, while last month he only made fifteen trips.

Deaths in La Crosse county during last month of the present year, as compared with corresponding months of the two previous years, are falling off.

Births are fewer than last year. The report for the month of March, 1915, 1914 and 1913, follows:

	1915	1914	1913
Deaths	50	59	57
Marriages	15	17	32

STREET COMMITTEE TO MEET TONIGHT

The special street improvement committee of the city council will meet at the city hall tonight to reconsider the plans and specifications for the brick paving of Rose street on the North side, and a strip of half a block at the head of Jay street. Because of an error of about a thousand square yards in the estimate of the Rose street job, the contractors have refused to accept their contract.

Following tonight's meeting a special session of the council may be called for Monday night to authorize the letting of a new contract so as not to delay the completion of the work.

Work on the South side contracts will be started by the La Crosse Stone company Monday, when a crew of men will begin tearing up Cameron avenue. Thirteenth street from Cass to Madison will follow, after which the Vine street job will be started.

CONGREGATIONAL SERVICES

Services preparatory to the bi-monthly communion service Sunday will be held at 7:45 this evening at the First Congregational church. A short address will be given by Rev. C. C. Rowland. Business will be transacted. Candidates for membership to the church will meet the pastoral committee at 7:30 at the church.

charge was broken down by the German fire.

French Repulsed

In the Champagne region, north of Lemois, the French attempt to win back their former positions failed. In the Argonne, north of Le Four de Paris, an enemy's trench has been captured and we have taken one officer and thirty Frenchmen prisoners. We have held the ground gained against repeated French counter attacks.

Near Comay, in the eastern Argonne, an enemy's aeroplane has been shot down and the aviators killed.

"Between the Meuse and the Moselle, the French attacks on the conquered positions on the Meuse heights have failed. North of Flirey a French charge failed and the enemy lost heavily."

"In the fighting in this region between April 24 and 28, we took prisoners forty-three officers including three regimental commanders and about 4,000 men."

"Our aerial forces have bombarded the fortified town of Harwich. In the eastern theater of war the German vanguard forces advancing into northwestern Russia reached yesterday in a broad front, the railroad from Duenaburg to Libau. The Russians did not offer any serious resistance. Fighting now is progressing near Szawle and near Kalwary where strong Russian attacks failed under heavy losses."

ZEPPELIN RAIDS OVER ENGLAND AGAIN IN NIGHT

Felixstowe and Ipswich Visited by Dirigible Which Drops Bombs Firing Several Houses

NO REPORTS OF ANY FATALITIES

German Craft Is Aided by a Dense Fog Which Covered Coast of Great Britain

LONDON, April 30.—Aided by a dense fog which enabled her to slide over the channel unnoticed, a Zeppelin paid a bomb-dropping visit to England again last night. Felixstowe and other points were visited and incendiary bombs dropped which set fire to a number of houses but otherwise did comparatively small damage, according to advices here today.

The German aircraft passed in from the sea at Felixstowe at midnight and proceeded to Ipswich, where two explosive and five incendiary bombs were dropped on Brookshall road, a residence section. Five houses were destroyed by fire here today.

One of the bombs fell in the bedroom occupied by Harry Goodwin, his wife and their daughter, 12 years old. The girl's bed was set on fire but the father rescued her. Scores of people fled to the streets in their nightclothing. The throbs of the powerful engines of the aircraft could be distinctly heard.

Damage at Bury St. Edmunds

The Zeppelin then proceeded to Whittin, where several bombs likewise were dropped. Soon after 1 o'clock it was sighted over Bury St. Edmunds where twelve bombs were dropped. Two were incendiary and set fire to a stable and buildings in the vicinity of the Suffolk hotel. St. Andrews hall and other buildings nearby were destroyed. Some of the bombs fell in the residential section. One man rushed out into the road and extinguished the fuse of a bomb with a pail of water. The Zeppelin finally disappeared in the direction of the sea.

One of the clearest stories told was by W. T. Eassey of 58 Brookshall road, Ipswich, who said:

"I was awakened by a buzz and almost immediately I heard an explosion. All of the windows of my house were shattered and the building set on fire. I rushed into the street taking my wife with me. I could see the airship above the city. I went back then and carried out my young son. By that time the entire building was on fire. The bomb destroyed the back of it and made a big hole in the ground."

ANTI-TREAT BILL ADVANCED TODAY

Assembly Enrosses the Measure After Attorney General Rules It Is Constitutional

MADISON, Wis., April 30.—The anti-treating bill which makes it a felony offense to publicly purchase a drink of intoxicating liquor not for personal consumption in a barroom was ordered to engrossment by the assembly today after a lively discussion.

Assemblyman Carl Minkley answered the arguments advanced by the opponents of the measure that it would be a dead letter on the statute books by saying that even if it was not rigidly enforced, the moral and educational effect of a card over a saloon reading to the effect that public treating was prohibited by law would eliminate much of the evil of excess treating. Assemblyman Minkley said that much of the bad effects of liquor was connected directly with the desire to treat. The letter from Attorney General Owen giving as his opinion that the law was constitutional had considerable effect on the vote on the bill.

Most of the bills on today's calendar were laid over in order to complete the work schedule. The bill giving women the right to vote for presidential electors was killed.

The assembly concurred in the bill appropriating $1,200,000 for the completion of the canal.

The Hambrecht bill, opening up the entire eligible list to appointment, instead of the three highest as the present law provides, was ordered to engrossment in the assembly, despite the adverse recommendation of the committee.

Assistant Secretary Lockney of the Wisconsin industrial commission was the principal speaker and leader in the following discussion were H. E. Montfort, La Crosse Plow company; W. A. Wager, Listman Milling company; L. A. Silberschmidt, Gund Brewing company, and W. J. Koch of the Wisconsin Pearl Button company.

ORATORS GUESTS OF 'NORM' STUDENTS AT SCHOOL TODAY

Participants in Big League Histrionics Tonight Address Pupils in General Assembly

SCHOOL SYSTEM IS PRAISED

President Selmy of Illinois Says Wisconsin Teachers Are as Good as Any in the Land

S. C. Harvey, J. Vaughan, J. L. Barnes and Addison Haugan, representatives respectively of the states of Kansas, Missouri, Iowa and Wisconsin; Theron Chaney of Macomb, Ill., and A. E. Woodruff of Emporia, Kansas, president and vice president respectively of the Interstate Oratorical league; besides Davis Selmy, president of the Illinois state normal school at Normal, Ill., and Miss Lucas, Milwaukee coach, were speakers this morning at general assembly at the normal school, on the morning of the Interstate Oratorical league championships to be held at the normal school tonight.

Russell Webb, chairman of the meeting, assembled all the guests to the contest on the stage in the auditorium. General assembly was in the nature of a mass meeting for the event tonight.

Deep praise for the Wisconsin school system was contained in the address by President Davis Selmy. He said teachers trained in Wisconsin schools are as efficient as are to be found in the country.

Selections by the Milwaukee male quartet drew several curtain calls. Isidor Muskrat of Milwaukee normal, rendered a piano solo.

The program tonight will include the following numbers although the order of the speakers may be rearranged:

"The Miscarriage of Justice," Lester C. Ary, Iowa State Teachers' college, Cedar Falls, Iowa.

"Woodrow Wilson," William Allen, Illinois State Normal university, Normal, Ill.

"The Prophet of the New Freedom," Miss Grace E. Copeland, Fort Hays, Kansas, Normal school, Fort Hays, Kan.

"The Meaning of the Conflict," Addison Haugan, Milwaukee State Normal school, Milwaukee, Wis.

"Efficient Popular Government," R. L. Howard, Missouri State Normal school, Cape Girardeau, Mo.

Now Bobbie Fries Has First Grief Auto Hits Doggie

Little "Bobby" Fries, aged three, is a sad little boy today. He is almost inconsolable. All because a big black automobile which passed his home at Ninth and Vine streets last night ran over and killed his doggie. The automobile didn't even stop after running over the cocker spaniel but bystanders caught the number of the car.

FRISCO IS SWEEP BY DAMAGING GALE

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 30. Two fatalities, fifty-four small craft damaged, many miles of telegraph and telephone wires prostrated and $200,000 damage to other property, was the toll reported today of a gale that swept San Francisco and vicinity within the past twenty-four hours.

John Ossian and Walter Peterson, school boys of Daley City, were electrocuted when they tried to climb a barbed wire fence onto which a live wire had blown.

A wind reaching the velocity of from 70 to 100 miles swept the Panama-Pacific exposition grounds during the night. Part of the roof of the Missouri building was blown off.

Eighteen hours overdue this morning, grave anxiety was felt for the passenger liner Pennsylvania which is believed to have run into last night's terrific gale while enroute to this port from the west coast of Mexico.

KEPPEL FIGHTERS FACE COURT TODAY

Albert Olson, Andrew Sokolik and John Foley are today standing trial before Judge Brindley for their alleged attack upon Herman Keppel, town of Campbell farmer.

Keppel is said to have ordered the three men and three young lady companions off his farm. He said they did damage there and used abusive language. Keppel sustained a badly bruised eye.

FOREIGN MARKETS

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, April 30.—The stock market opened strong and active today with just a few stocks showing slight losses. Steel was up 3/4 at 59 1/2. Four hundred shares of M. K. & T. common sold at 14 1/4, a gain of one point.

Trading was unusually active all during the first hour. War order stocks were the most active. Westinghouse touched a new high record at 100 1/2, 2 1/2 above yesterday's best figure. Rock Island after selling down to 22 1/2 recovered and gained a point.

The news of the bombardment of Dunkirk by the German fleet caused a little reaction. Meeting good support, however, the prices remained firm. Trading was less active after the first hour.

Westinghouse continued a strong feature in the second hour, selling up to 104, a net advance of six points. Steel sold down to 58 1/2, a reaction of two points from Thursday's high figure. The market at noon generally was firm.

In the early afternoon war stocks advanced sharply. Westinghouse going up ten points over Thursday's close. Standard stocks were less active.

The stock market closed strong.

TO PRAY FOR PEACE

DES MOINES, Iowa, April 29.—The board of bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church in session here today adopted a resolution to prepare a call for prayer for the cessation of hostilities in Europe to be sent to churches at home and abroad. No formal worded prayer will be offered by the clergy and laity will be asked to pray at all times for the termination of the war.

The noble truth is often mistakes for an epigram.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Darkens Beautifully and Restores Its Thickness and Lustre at Once.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and lustrant, remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application of two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and lustrant and you appear years younger.

NORTH DAKOTA IN APPEAL FOR GIRLS

CHICAGO, April 30.—An agonized appeal for Chicago femininity was received here today from North Dakota. Letters were received from business men, bankers, farmers and laborers in the wheat belt for girls to work in North Dakota's electric lighted, up-to-date farm houses. All the advantages of the city are offered—and, too, there are any number of unattached wheat barons to angle for.

The requests were received by James W. Cally, head of the city employment bureau, and it was stated that each request for girls had been investigated. Twenty dollars a month with a good home is the wages offered.

NAMES BRUCE ON BOARD

LONDON, April 30.—In the house of commons this afternoon Sir Edward Grey announced that Viscount Bryce, former British ambassador to the United States, has been named as the British member of the Anglo-American mediation board created under the Bryan peace treaty with the United States.

Benefit of Exercise.

The feeble and deficient muscular perfection of the infant at birth in comparison with monkeys and many other lower animals causes a greater increased growth. In a wild and primitive state man really depended for his existence on this muscular prowess, or deeds and not words. By dint of exercise anyone may improve his activities, his reserve resistance to illness and fatigue, his power to conquer all nature.

After a man has been married two weeks he can readily understand why love is blind.

WOMEN HOPING FOR PLAN TO END WAR

Have Not Given Up Hope of Finding Way to Terminate Present Struggle

THE HAGUE, April 30.—The women in attendance on the peace congress were still hopeful today that some concrete plan would be devised that will aid in terminating the present war. Miss Fannie Andrews has been assigned to the task of drafting a manifesto which will embody the result of the various discussions to date.

Dr. Augsburg, one of the leaders of the congress declared today she believed that the congress must have a strong moral effect on the various belligerents and was hopeful that there might be some definite results. She believes the congress should recommend to belligerent the immediate commencement of peace negotiations.

Dr. Augsburg declared that she did not believe that Germany could accept any offer of mediation from the United States in view of the munitions that are being furnished the allies. She declared that the only nation that had preserved absolute neutrality in the war was Holland.

JURY MAY FREE HUSBAND

SHERIDAN, Wyo., April 30.—A coroner's jury today was expected to free E. C. Reed, Burlington agent at Rochester, of responsibility for killing Ed Hughey, a young ranchman whom Reed found shoeless in his home with Mrs. Reed when the husband unexpectedly returned. Mrs. Reed had asked her husband for a separation so she could wed Hughey but Reed had refused and insisted she remain with their two children.

LAST GERMAN SHIP CAPTURED.

MELBOURNE, April 30.—It is officially announced that a British warship has captured the German trading steamship Elfriede, which is believed to have been the last German ship free in the Pacific. Available shipping data contain no record of a German vessel named Elfriede.

NOTHING DEFINITE WILL BE DECIDED BY WAR, SAYS COUNT

Count Julius Andrássy.

Count Julius Andrássy of Budapest, who according to news reports has just been in Berlin talking over peace prospects with German officials, sees no satisfaction to either of the contending sides as a result of the war. He is sure that both the Allies and the Austro-Germans will tenaciously hold their ground, and that the war is bound to end in complete exhaustion to both sides unless it soon comes to an end.

ANOTHER RECOVERY FROM TUBERCULOSIS

MRS. MABEL V. WRIGHT

Mrs. Mabel V. Wright, Mt. Orab (Brown Co.), Ohio, who has taken Nature's Creation, writes under recent date that "Every one here said I had tuberculosis, but I am now cured sound and well. I think my friends all say they never saw me look better—say they would hardly know me." In July, 1912, I weighed 99½ pounds and seven months afterward weighed 138½ pounds. Have no trouble with my lungs or no cough, only when I have a cold of course. I support my child and work in a boarding house for it does not seem to hurt me at all.

In our office files—open to the public—we have many number of letters telling of the remarkable results accomplished by Nature's Creation in cases of tuberculosis and conditions leading to it—such as asthma, bronchitis, catarrh, impure blood and run-down system. Everybody should learn the truth about this remarkable remedy, which we will gladly furnish. Write for a copy of our new booklet, "Truth," containing photos and testimonials of former sufferers. Address Elmer Haenlein, 32 Sentinel Bldg., Milwaukee, Wis.

Nature's Creation is not a patent medicine and is not sold in drug stores. Beware of substitutes—demand the original and genuine Nature's Creation. Watch for Nature's Creation testimonials which will appear in this paper every Friday.

War Office News of Fighting

BELGIUM

LONDON, April 30.—The Belgian official statement issued today says that on the night of April 28 and on April 29 the Belgians, co-operating with the French, repulsed German attacks from Steenstraete. Various parts of the Belgian front have again been bombarded by the Germans but the Belgians have advanced and taken a farm south of Plauw-Vortburg.

GASES; NOT BULLETS

LONDON, April 30.—The British war office in a statement, supplementing its previous charges that the Germans in their fighting are using noxious gases, says: "Medical evidence shows that Canadian soldiers have lost their lives in the recent fighting not from wounds, but from poisoning by gases employed by the enemy."

Business Is Good

CHICAGO, April 30.—All signs point to prosperity!

This was the optimistic slogan uttered today by two of the country's biggest trade kings—Jacob Schiff and Joseph B. Davies, members of the federal trade commission. Both are stopping in Chicago after a tour of many western cities for the purpose of counting the pulse beats of America's trade.

"Gloom's career is over and this country is ready for business awakening and increase of trade," said Schiff today. "The wheat crop should be a bumper one, unless all indications fail. Mile after mile of it stretches throughout the west. This alone is most significant."

"The railroads are entering a new business era. They are getting in better shape all the time. The country is taking on new life. Nothing should hold it back."

Commissioner Davies corroborated everything the New York capitalist predicted in the way of better times for everyone.

IN HOLLAND WITH DR. MAURER AND HIS SPY GLASSES

number of windmills he owns, and not by the amount of mortgages or negotiable paper he possesses.

Holland's canals are its principal avenues of commerce, as well as for pleasure. Many are deep and wide enough to allow the largest vessels to pass through them. The shores in villages as well as in the country are lined by ugly looking barges, that in many cases not only house the family, but serves as stable and farm yard for pigs, chickens and a cow or two.

The houses are plain, built of brick with red tile roofs, sharply pointed. The better ones have stony trimmings at the doors and windows, neatly painted blinds, an outside stairway and unusually large windows. Outside of the windows are mirrors placed at angles to reflect scenes on the walks and streets below. This enables the woman above to do her work and at the same time see what is going on outside. In rural districts you will often see hanging out of the attic window a beam and pulley, used to hoist up articles of food, furniture, etc., to prevent defacing the polished and sandpapered stairs and hallways.

The Holland dogs, no matter how large or how small, are all forced to labor. It is surprising how well they are trained and what loads they will haul. Here too, as in Austria you can see a woman and dog hitched to a heavy loaded cart. "Working like a dog" must have originated in Holland.

The men wear high buttoned jackets, long stockings and baggy trousers; the women a tight fitting cap drawn over the ears, with fancy trimmings, a solitary curl in the back, and fancy richly embroidered vests, colored to shame a Bohemian. The number of skirts a woman wears depends on the amount of wealth she possesses. Some of the wealthier wear as many as ten or fifteen at a time.

The cattle and horses of Holland, remarkable for size and strength, are sought after by all countries.

Ranks High on Seas

Holland has always ranked foremost among the nations on the seas. At one time it outranked England in the number of vessels. Frederick the Great of Russia, after having filled in the lowlands where the river Neva empties into the Gulf of Finland for the building of Russia's capital, realized the necessity of a merchant marine and a navy. He chose Holland as the proper place to study the art of ship building, and spent nearly a year in the shipyards of Amsterdam and Rotterdam planning for Russia's navy and marine.

The enormity of the task of filling in the lowlands upon which St. Petersburg is built, can best be imagined when one considers that it required the filling in of from five to fifteen feet and that most of the soil was dug with sticks and with hands.

GUARDIAN OF THE GERMAN WAR CHEST

Dr. Karl Hefferich

"If this is to be a war of silver bullets, Germany is prepared. Wall street is and can be with the allies, but Germany will remain unfrightened." This is the opinion of financial Germany as recently expressed by Dr. Karl Hefferich, who is one of Germany's most successful financiers. He was director of the Deutsche Bank, largest in Germany, until the kaiser picked him to handle the war finances. He has raised two war loans exceeding three billion dollars, and is the real "man behind the money" of the empire.

YAKIMA CITY NO MORE

NORTH YAKIMA, Wash., April 30.—With the closing of the postoffice at Yakima City, four miles south of here, today, a town dear to the hearts of the early pioneers practically lost its separate identity.

Yakima City was established more than a half century ago. Previous attempts to close the office were thwarted by the old settlers. However, the postal receipts dwindled so greatly that the government, throwing sentiment to the winds, ordered the office closed.

The decadence of Yakima City began with the building of the Northern Pacific railroad and the establishment of North Yakima.

SOLONS SIMULATE LEGISLATIVE ACTS IN MOCK MEETING

Resolutions and Bills Handled by Assembly Employees with Fake Solemnity

MADISON, Wis., April 30.—The mock session of the assembly, given by the employees of that body Thursday evening was the big event of that legislative day. The members of that body were given an opportunity to see themselves as others see them. No presentation by the famous Gridiron club at the national capital ever created more interest nor have the foibles and idiosyncrasies of the members of a Wisconsin legislature received such a merciless handling as was the case last night.

The session drew a crowded house, standing room being at a premium. Prominent state officials, almost the entire membership of the upper house, and the whole membership of the assembly, dropped all the cares of state to see the show.

Everything in a legislative session was staged, even down to a message from the Governor delivered by Sam Banks, the colored messenger, to the chief executive. The governor asked for increased appropriations, and tripling the state expenditures, and remarked that men may come and men may go, "but you go on forever."

Resolutions and bills were handled in every stage, one by Assemblyman Frederick calling for the erection of a buttermilk tank in the assembly lobby. Nelson moved to amend by substituting in place of the word "buttermilk" the word "Schlitz."

The Baker law came in for attention in a bill submitted to put a saloon in every third house in Milwaukee. Axel Johnson objected to a bill to buy birdseed for the eagle in the assembly chamber because "the bird was stuffed to the limit."

WAUPUN WARDEN DENIES PHILIPP HAS CLOSED PLANT

SHEBOYGAN, Wis., April 30.—The Press received a letter today from Daniel Woodward, warden of Waupun prison, denying absolutely that the binder twine factory at that institution has been closed by Gov. Philipp, as reported last week. Mr. Woodward further stated that there was a large quantity of fibre in the warehouse, and that on May 1 the factory would operate both night and day until the close of the season.

Mrs. M. J. Barthell and children are visiting in Mount Vernon and will also attend the May festival.

BRYAN TALKS PROHIBITION

NEW YORK, April 30.—William Jennings Bryan, secretary of state, is slated as the principal speaker at a temperance meeting to be held in Carnegie hall tonight under the auspices of the National Abstinents' union, a non-sectarian and non-political organization.

FRECKLE-FACE

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots, How to Remove Easily

Here's a chance, Miss Freckle-face, to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable dealer that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles; while if it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength—from O. T. Erhart or any druggist and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength othine as this is the prescription sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

LA CROSSE YOUTHS MAKE BEST SAILORS SAY NAVY MEN

Instructions have been received at the local navy recruiting station in the post office building to inquire into the residence, antecedents, etc., of each applicant for enlistment in the navy who is found qualified before he is finally enlisted. This is to reduce the number of men who are found to be unfitted for the navy at the naval training station at Great Lakes, Ill., where they are schooled before being sent to duty on board a war ship.

The average number of men discharged for this district has been very low compared with those from larger cities. The men from the smaller cities such as La Crosse are found to make the best material for the navy. Desertions have fallen off 17 per cent during the last year and re-enlistments have increased 12 per cent. The American born and United States naturalized citizens in the navy now number 95 per cent of the total.

WIFE BRANDS STORY FAKE

KENOSHA, Wis., April 30.—Frank Van Wie, "the man who lost himself," was arrested here today by Police Chief O'Hara, following the statement of Van Wie's wife in Chicago that the story of the loss of memory was a fake. LINOLEUMS PICTURES

Week's Offering In Movieland As Seen in La Crosse
By N. D. Tevis

Not a "movie" fan in town is sorry that "Kop" has switched the majestic policy over to pictures for the summer months. Manager Koppelman is not going to disappoint. He has arranged to show the best features to be secured from American producers, who have the entire away since Europe has been closed to the "movie" photographer.

La Crosse theaters have been showing pictures of exceptional merit all week. They include long features and short reel programs. With numerous good pictures being played in La Crosse frequently an exceptional one is often missed in the scramble.

Be a "Reel Fan"

In the programs which follow, pick out the actor you know best; the producer you are familiar with and the pictures you have seen advertised—consider yourself a "Reel Fan" and you will come to the conclusion that you do not have to go to New York to see a good moving picture.

Producing companies showing pictures at the Majestic today are the Kalem, Biograph, Selig and Edison. They mix comedy and drama in short snappy reels.

The Sunday program at the Majestic will have special interest for those who enjoy "movies" of the better order. "The House Next Door" by J. Hartley Manners, author of "Peg O' My Heart," will be the attraction. Ethel Clayton heads a superb cast of Lubin favorites in the portrayal of the picture.

"Captain Alvarez," by the Vitaphone company will be the attraction Monday and Tuesday at the Majestic. As a depiction of the best of the screen affords in thrill, this photoplay of love and adventure in Mexico reigns supreme. As a drawing card at the Vitaphone theater on Broadway, "Captain Alvarez" was the biggest kind of a hit.

Wednesday and Thursday brings back Clara Kimball Young, the most beautiful actress on the stage, who will play in a portrayal of the famous tale of political intrigue in Russia.

WOMAN REFUSES OPERATION

Tells How She Was Saved by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Louisville, Ky.—"I think if more suffering women would take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound they would enjoy better health. I suffered from a female trouble, and the doctors decided I had a tumorous growth and would have to be operated upon, but I refused as I do not believe in operations. I had fainting spells, bloated, and could hardly stand the pain in my left side. My husband insisted that I try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am so thankful I did, for I am now a well woman. I sleep better, do all my housework and take long walks. I never fail to praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for my good health."—Mrs. J. M. Rescort, 1900 West Broadway, Louisville, Ky.

Since we guarantee that all testimonials which we publish are genuine, it is not fair to suppose that if Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has the virtue to help these women it will help any other woman who is suffering in a like manner?

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

latter release was made public. This picture features Clara Kimball Young, showing in other theaters here now, and well known in La Crosse. "Hearts in Exile" has the elements of a good picture. Possibly the best evidence of the great merit of this picture is the fact that the New York Hippodrome, said to be the greatest theater in the world, is showing it this present week. During the first nine days of its run there 140,000 saw it.

"A Man's Size Picture" is the conclusion of a full page of praiseworthy comment bestowed by a critic in the Moving Picture World on "From Headquarters," a three part Broadway Star feature showing at the Casino today. Anita Stewart, Earl Williams and Anders Randolph are the stars. It would be hard to imagine a stronger cast. Miss Stewart is the daughter of a headquarters detective, played by Anders Randolph. Earl Williams plays the part of the employer who has won the love of, and then discards Miss Stewart. The employer is stabbed, the detective is called in and—well the Moving Picture World critic gave it a full page of praise, and as the reader will want to see it, we won't spoil it by telling the story in advance.

John Bunny at Casino

"Love, Luck and Gasoline," the last picture in which John Bunny acted, will be shown to Bunny lovers at the Casino tomorrow.

When the news came across the country that John Bunny had died, many a heart felt sad, and La Crosse theater goers were no exception. Bunny was a real favorite.

He played at the La Crosse theater in a comedy recently and drew large attendances.

sia, "My Official Wife." This picture shows 300 scenes in five parts. It is one of the most gripping tales ever told in pictures. The settings are wonderful.

The wonderful use of the moving picture as an educational factor is shown in "Sport and Travel," at the Majestic Friday and Saturday. The picture deals with a Pathe expedition through the jungles of Africa, and is intensely exciting.

Dome

"The Burglar and the Blind Man," a two reel Kalem picture of merit, is the attraction at the Dome today. Harry Millard and Alice Hollister are the stars.

"Pines of Lory," a dramatic adaptation from the novel by J. A. Mitchell, with Miriam Nesbitt and Marc MacDermott. "Perils of Pauline" held attention Tuesday.

"His Dearest Foes," an Essanay drama in two parts adopted from the popular magazine story, was seen Wednesday and Thursday.

Bijou

The program at the Bijou since last Sunday were exceptionally good and attracted thousands.

"David Harum," played by William H. Crane, the original star of the stage production, proved to be one of the classic Paramount attractions this year.

"Pathe Day," which occurs each Wednesday, brought Florence Turner, Vitaphone star, in "Her People," a drama of capital and labor.

"The Love Route," with Harold Lockwood, Winifred Kingston and Jack Pickford (Mary Pickford's brother), playing again tonight and Saturday, is a winner.

The much talked of Paramount travel pictures will be shown at the Bijou every week, starting Thursday. They will be shown Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The public will have another treat Sunday in Lasky's new production of "A Gentleman of Leisure," with Wallace Edinger. The picture will continue until Tuesday.

Blazon Production Here

"Rule G," a Blazon company production, will be shown at the Bijou Thursday, Friday and Saturday. "Rule G" is familiar to every railroad man. It is the railroad's rule for the employee, having to do with the drinking of liquor while on duty. The picture is the greatest exposition of the American railroad ever shown.

The Bijou now has the May issue of the Paramount magazine and will present copies to its patrons.

Lyric

Starting Monday the Lyric will change its policy for the summer months, and will show a new program every day. Programs of the General Film company and Universal pictures will be alternated. Admission for the first five days of the week will be five cents. Four reel programs will be shown on these days. The regular admission will be charged Saturday and Sunday when five reel feature programs will be shown.

Charlie Chaplin

Hearst-Selig weeklies will be shown each Saturday. The widely advertised Charlie Chaplin two reel comedies will be shown every other week. The first will be "The Champion," the greatest picture Chaplin ever made, and will be shown Saturday, May 15.

"The Dutchess," a three reel Cleo Madison story with a clever comedy, is the attraction today and tomorrow.

Pauline Bush in "The Girl of the Night," will show Sunday. Two other clever subjects will be on the program.

"The Great Silence," coming to the Lyric Monday, will be the first General Film company program. Francis X. Bushman will feature this. A Vitaphone comedy will also be shown.

Other programs are equally good.

There is some hope for civilization after all. They say as how the dancing craze is dyin' out.

Dandruff Surely Destroys The Hair

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

BANKERS WELCOME

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Small bankers in all parts of the country are writing Secretary McAdoo, asking if they may attend the Pan-American financial conference to be held here beginning May 24. They are told their presence will be extremely welcome.

REPORTS 25 SPOTS ON SUN

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 30.—Twenty-five sun spots, covering a solar area estimated at 300,000 square miles, were reported today by observers at Christian Brothers' college here. The largest spot, it was said, is 20,000 miles in diameter.

LUCKY HE WASN'T HIT

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 30.—Carrying six sticks of dynamite, Y. Tokano, a Japanese, engaged in a pistol duel with police who suspected him of planning to blow up the local German newspaper. Tokano was in jail here today, suspected of being mentally unbalanced.

BULLION BILLED AS SILK

AMES, Iowa, April 30.—The third day after a "silk train" passed through here over the Northwestern road, eastbound, guarded with armed soldiers, it became known that the "silk" was tons of gold bullion from western mines.

GIRL KILLED BY AUTO

JAMESTOWN, N. D., April 30.—While her parents watched her, unable to save, Marion Abell, aged 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Abell, former residents of Jamestown, was run down and killed by an automobile at Edmonton, Can.

FOR OVER SUNDAY

Sunday's big dinner needs a big black cigar to wind up with. Be sure you have one!

But during the rest of the day you'll be needing some milder type of cigar like this: A cigar with the incomparable Havana slightly tempered by the addition of certain milder tobaccos, all perfectly rolled into a velvety blend, and enclosed in a silky Sumatra wrapper

—in a word a "modulated" Havana.

That's a pretty fair description of Tom Moore—the cigar that fills its own good place in the daily needs of so many temperate smokers—who always come back

Open Up Air Passages.

Ah! What relief! Your clogged nostrils open right up, the air passages of your head are clear and you can breathe freely. No more hawking, snuffling, mucous discharge, headache, dryness—no struggling for breath at night, your cold or catarrh is gone.

Don't stay stuffed up! Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream, Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream in your nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head; soothe and heal the swollen, inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Ely's Cream Balm is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer has been seeking. It's just splendid.

NAVAL RESERVE ORDERS GIVEN

Instructions received from the navy department at Washington by the local navy recruiting station direct that efforts be made to obtain the names and addresses of all ex-navy men in La Crosse who have honorable discharges in order to form a naval reserve in this city. The senior non-commissioned officer is to take charge and the members are to meet once every three months. Lieutenant F. J. Wille, U. S. Navy, of Minneapolis, is expected at this station to swear in and instruct the reserves as soon as a sufficient number of men have signified their willingness to enter the reserves. Names and addresses are now being taken at the local navy recruiting station in the post office building.

Swatfest Ends in Late Vic-

Chicago; Yanks Trim
Boston

NEW YORK, April 30.—The Giants-Braves clash at the Polo grounds Thursday afternoon, after being declared forfeited to the Giants, was started nearly an hour late. The Boston team at first refused to take the field because of the presence of Benny Kauff, Federal league batting champion in the Giants' lineup. McGraw after a delay, took Kauff off the field and the game was started.

President Tener, of the National league was appealed to before the game could be started. Kauff jumped from the Brooklyn Federal league team to the Giants yesterday. McGraw placed him in center field at the start of the game. Gaffney, president of the Braves, notified McGraw that he would not allow his team to appear on the field if Kauff remained in the Giants' lineup. McGraw refused to take Kauff off the field and the umpires declared the game forfeited to New York when Boston would not play.

Gaffney called President Tener on the telephone and Tener declared that Gaffney was right; that Kauff could not play with the Giants. McGraw then took Kauff out of the game. The score: R H E

Evans, Brookfeds, off Conley, Balto.
Baneroff, Phillies, off Dell, Dodgers.
Cather, Braves, off Marquard, Giants.
Gowdy, Braves, off Marquard, Giants.
Murray, Giants, off James, Braves.

The defection of Mr. Kauff didn't seem to dim the Brookfeds' batting eyes to any noticeable extent as they combed three Baltimore pitchers for sixteen hits.

Anyway, too much attention was being directed toward the playing end of the game, and it needed a little diversion in the way of a court battle.

It was a costly game the Giants and Braves played, at that, as Fred Merkle and Hans Lobert were both injured. And McGraw needs 'em.

Well, the Phunny Phils finally dropped a game but look who had to do it—Brooklyn.

Tyrus Raymond didn't get a blow, but the Tigers won anyway, as Veach, Kavanaugh and Vitt performed a la Cobb.

POLICEMAN FULTON
LICKS JACK MORAN
IN SHOW AT SPARTA

Chicagoan Wrenched Knee in Fifth; Akron Red and Packey Nolan of La Crosse Lose

Fred Fulton, ex-policeman of Minneapolis, last night won a newspaper decision over Jack Moran of Chicago, in the fifth round of their scheduled ten round go at Sparta. Moran wrenched his knee in the fifth round and physicians refused to let the bout continue.

The first, second and fifth rounds were clearly Fulton's, while Moran earned a shade in the third and fourth.

Moran, who weighed in at 176 pounds, was clearly at a disadvantage against the height and reach of the 207 pound giant from Minneapolis. Despite that fact, however, he got behind guard on several occasions, making the cop winner.

Moran Forces Fighting

From the fighting side of the bout, Moran shone, as he chased the big fellow from one end of the ring to the other. Fulton was content with holding his opponent at arm's length and permitting a casual blow to fall now and then. Art Nelson of Sparta challenged Fulton.

La Crosse Men Beaten
La Crosse fight talent fared poorly in the lesser bouts of the evening. Akron Red, one time bright night of Ohio lightweights, was knocked cold in the first round of his semi-final with Dan Rogers, Sparta. Akron Red weighed in at 135 pounds. Rogers tipped the scales at 156.

Young Grey of Milwaukee won a popular decision over Packey Nolan of La Crosse in their six round opener. They weighed in at 133 pounds. Grey had the better of the fight all the way.

Walter H. Houlihan of Milwaukee refereed.

BY HAL SHERIDAN
(Written for the United Press.)

NEW YORK, April 30.—Just when the dove of peace was about to flutter around a little, then gently close its wings and settle down peacefully over the baseball situation—comes a terrific explosion that splits the forces of organized baseball and the Federal league farther apart than ever before. The jumping of Benny Kauff, the Federal's star batsman, to the Giants, is expected to precipitate the hottest clash yet waged between the two baseball factions.

Robert B. Ward, president of the Brooklyn Feds, to which Kauff belonged, stated today that he would fight to the last ditch to keep Kauff from playing with McGraw's crew. He asserted further, that if the Giants won out in court and kept Kauff that the Feds would retaliate by going over the heads of organized baseball, regardless of whether they are under contract or not.

"Heretofore we have respected the contracts of the American and National leagues," said Ward. "We Manager McGraw of the Giants said he is satisfied he had a legal right to sign Kauff. He declared the Brooklyn club did not have him under contract, but was trying to hold him under a three year contract he had with the Indianapolis Feds. As the Indianapolis club is out of existence, McGraw declared Kauff was a free agent.

HERSCHLEB LEADS CROSS-COUNTRY TEAM OF THE Y.

Many Men Turn Out for Wor in New Activity; Will Run Race in June

W. F. Herschleb will captain the 1915 cross-country squad of the Young Men's Christian association it was decided at a meeting held recently. Herschleb was elected captain over Harold Beisel by a vote of 8 to 5.

The sport, although yet in its infant stage, is probably the best drawing activity at the association. An of fifteen men have turned out for the last few runs and many more have signed up for the sport but have not been able as yet to report for work.

Work in cross-country will be conducted on a graded basis. Physical Director H. R. Lee of the association has announced. People who are not able to take the full course mapped out for each workout will be given shorter distances until they have acquired the endurance necessary for the two and three mile runs planned for the squad.

As planned now, the runs will be taken into the country where those who wish may drop out of the run when outside of the city limits. They will in that way be enabled to recuperate and join the rest of the squad as it returns.

As a windup to the season, which will probably close about June 15, a five mile handicap cross-country run is planned with a loving cup as prize. The run will probably be made into Minnesota.

WOMEN POLL CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, April 30.—A call in New York Friday by five hundred suffragists on Senator O'Gorman will inaugurate a poll, the congressional union for women suffrage announced here today, of every member of congress in the interests of a universal ballot.

Bill Donovan has his rejuvenated Reds movin' right along. Sixteen Red Sox tried to stop 'em yesterday, but gave it up as a bad job.

Willie Doak and Dan Griner were sacrificed at Cincinnati in a vain endeavor to stop the Reds. Herzog's crew nipped 'em for 17 blows.

The National Food

WHY should America, the leader of nations, have to adopt a national food? Isn't she old enough and big enough to have one of her own? This land with its broad acres and progressive ideas, the "market basket of the world," has borrowed from the older nations the initial product, none of which nor all of which is a truly representative American food.

Every country has a food best suited to its climate and to the conditions and health of its people:

Scotland stands for Oatmeal—
Germany for Rye—Hungary for Barley—Italy for Macaroni—China and Japan for Rice—

and America should stand for Corn as a national food, if Corn could be made a rational digestible human food.

It was left to Dr. Price of Cream Baking Powder fame to conceive the idea that, as America is the melting pot of the world, the union of all peoples, so the ideal American Food should be a union of all grains, containing all the elements of both animal and vegetable life, giving the full measure of nutrition in both, and a perfectly balanced food as well. As a result this great food specialist, who was making pure foods before the government talked about them, has produced a food as nearly perfect and as good as things ever come into this world.

The last word in cereals is—

Titled Skirts Creep Up Aristocratic Shins In Manner Truly Alarming

BY MARGARET MASON
(Written for the United Press.)
Her Grace is of the ballet not at all. It's simply badly cut.
Though true it is she wears much shorter Her skirts than she had really order.

LONDON, April 22.—By Mail to New York.—It's amazing the way titled skirts are creeping up aristocratic shins. Talk about your belted sari, you can't really can say much more about his lady countess wife these days, or rather nights, for her skirts are cut so high and her waists are cut so low there isn't much more than a girdle for an embarrassed eye to cling to.

For daytime frocks and costumes as well, Her Grace, My Lady, and the Hon. Molly are showing an expanse of ankle that generously goes the eight inch mandate at least two inches better, or perhaps we should say worse. Skirting a rather tender subject, there seems to be abundant evidence these days that you can go further and fare worse when it comes to a question of British skirts. The pretty English dairy maid who voiced the historic answer that "My face is my fortune" could never have gotten by with a like statement anent her feet. But be that as it may, feet, and even much feet, seem to demand even more inches when you start to hem about them.

A cunning little dreadnaught grey costume of faille shows the short skirt tendency and other things besides. Of course, the skirt is circular;
they are always that or pleated these times, and is finished around its voluminous ruffled hem with a deep band of eight inch black silk braid. The blouse worn with it is of the same color chiffon with bell shaped sleeves and a high military collar. It is buttoned straight up the front, as is the skirt from hem to belt, with bullet buttons of black onyx. The little short box coat comes just to the waist line and has the regulation military braiding across the front carried out with a narrower width of the black silk skirt braid and the bullet buttons.
High black patent kid shoes with grey leather upper, laced on the sides are worn with this striking outfit. A chic little black satin brimless hat fits tight and snug to the top of the head as if it were moulded to it and flaunts two bunches of black

BRIDGE IS BURNED 'Q' TRAFFIC TIED TO TWIN CITIES

Fire at Hagar, Wis., Stops
All Train Service on Burlington Main Line

Traffic on the Burlington road was tied up for ten hours today between Minneapolis and La Crosse by the burning of a bridge near Hagar, Wis., which lies across the Mississippi river from Red Wing, Minn.

The bridge, which was of pile construction, started burning early this morning, presumably set ablaze by coals from a locomotive. Fire fighting apparatus were called from Red Wing. The fire was under control at 11 o'clock this morning.

A special work train including the crane from Grand Crossing and several cars of bridge building materials left at noon for the scene of the fire. Local officials of the road expected the line to be opened late this afternoon. The bridge was forty feet long.

Train No. 52, due here from the north at noon, arrived two hours late over the Milwaukee road. Other trains were held at La Crosse and Minneapolis, in some cases being several hours late.

Hilmar Christianson, who has been visiting in Bagley, has returned to his home, 1923 Charles street.

Walter Robinson, Minneapolis, is spending a few days with north side friends.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Malay have returned to their home, 1316 Sill street, after a visit with friends and relatives in Melvina.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Osweller are short time today.

CHEF ILL ON TRAIN

William Brown, negro, Chicago, bound train last night at Grand Crossing, suffering with appendicitis.

He was removed to the Lutheran hospital, where he was operated upon immediately. His case is not serious.

and summer hats each and every one of which boasts as their only trimming huge and lavish bunches of aigrettes or Paradise.

They occasionally do trim hats in something besides aigrettes over here, however, for I glimpsed a tiny blue turban on Bond street the other day that was fantastically adorned with three lemons. This ought to prove a helpful hint to the homesick American. By having her wonderful feathers replaced with citrus fruit she would only be realistically flaunting her private opinion as to the true status of any possible substitute trimming.

At a little informal midnight supper dance last week Miss Nancy Conard and Iris Tree proved ardent advocates of the abbreviated skirt.
Being a true descendant of the Cunard line it seems quite appropos that Miss Nancy should flaunt a high water frock and it was most appropriately composed of a frothy white bodice of tulle with cunning little white cap sleeves. The skirt was two foaming white billows of tulle girdled with a sash of seagreen ribbon.
Miss Tree with her blonde hair in a bang was most fetching in a black velvet bodice sleeveless save for shoulder straps of the black. It was cut out with rather a square Dutch effect in front and back and a single half blown rose of pink broke the black somberness near the left shoulder. The bodice ended abruptly at a round rather short waist line and the skirt composed of three full flounces of tulle, one pale blue, one pale pink and one yellow burst butterfly like from its black velvet chrysalis.
The Tree limbs were incased in pale blue stockings and black velvet slippers.

There is quite a penchant for the velvet bodice in evening frocks and not only are the contrasting black velvet bodice and net skirts much worn, but a charming pastel blue taffeta with a velvet bodice of the same shade was the sartorial hit at the Savoy the other night. The skirt was caught up on the left side in pink roses revealing a petticoat of white chiffon and lace. A garland of the roses also served in lieu of the

SPARTA MAN HURT BY ROLLING STONE

SPARTA, Wis., April 30.—(Special.)—A laborer narrowly escaped death yesterday while working on the new building of the Sparta postoffice. A huge block of granite, which had been placed on the foundations, rolled from its position and caught the man across the body. Following an examination by physicians it was learned that the fellow was not seriously injured.

Local and Personal
Fred Enckhausen, Cashton, Wis., was a Sparta caller last night.

Miss Corry returned yesterday morning from a brief visit in Milwaukee.

SALOONS TO CLOSE

DETROIT, Mich., April 30.—Midnight tonight will witness the permanent closing of more than 300 saloons and several breweries in ten Michigan counties that swung from "wet" to "dry" in the recent state election. Beginning tomorrow, forty-four counties in the state will be "dry" territory, while in only thirty-nine will the saloons continue to have a legal existence.

The election placed more than half of the area of the state in "dry" territory, but nearly a million more persons will reside in the "wet" counties than in those that are "dry."

TRAMPS DESERT COPPERS

dropped to near the freezing point early this morning.

Not since late in August has the municipal lodging house gone unoccupied overnight, although on several occasions lately only one or two men have applied for shelter.

LONDON WORSHIP'S HEROES

LONDON, April 14.—(By Mail to New York.)—The most popular war time diversion of Britishers today is hero worship.

London shopkeepers are authority for the statement that they can hardly keep up with the demand for portraits of Lord Kitchener, Admiral Sir John Jellicoe, General French and other popular idols of the present conflict.

From every shop window and small store there beams on the passenger the faces of these military heroes and it is estimated that before many moons few homes in Britain will be without the likeness of some of the men who are leading the history making legions on the sea and in the field.

Nine-tenths of a man's talk is of no earthly importance.

ARKANSAS ADVERTISES

DALLAS, Texas, April 30.—It pays to advertise, it has been said. Ask Arkansas.

Enroute here from Chicago, some of the most marvelous advertising in the country may be seen. One hotel has emblazoned in letters, large enough that he who runs may read:
"The — hotel has as good salt and toothpicks as any others."

Still another sign reads—"Good beds 25 cents." while just underneath, the world is apprised of the fact that the gentleman in control likewise offers a fine line of coffins, lap robes and various and sundry other articles.

OLD FOGY MAN OF GOOD SENSE.

Ed Howe, the old Atchison Globe man has lately been defending the old fogy, whom he eulogizes as a man of "practical sense." "The old fogy carefully examines every new idea and adopts every suggestion in it that will work out in practice. * *
No old fogy ever became a tramp;
you never knew a worthless man in your life who was not full of visionary schemes." One fears that Mr.
Howe is a little overfond of Philistines. He rather overdoes his enumeration.

JUDGE SPENT $1,924.97

MADISON, Wis., April 30.—John

EMPLOYEES FIGHT JITNEYS

CHICAGO, April 30.—Chicago car employees, both on the elevated and surface lines, plan an attempt to put their unions on record as opposed to the jitney bus. Resolutions may be adopted calling upon union men and sympathizers throughout the United States to boycott the jitneys, because they present a menace to street car employees.

Statistics of the Chicago elevated and surface lines companies show that the profits are made only on short run passengers. The strap hanger always is carried at a hundred per cent profit.

The jitney, it is feared, will do away with the strap hanger and will lift the short run passenger from the car.

get what he advertises for, but he seldom gets what he wanted.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 30

—Let those beware who would trespass on the prop-him, but Kroot will protect his watchdog.

When a policeman jumped the Kroot fence in chase

intruder's coat and hung on. The copper drew a gun to shoot the dog, but Kroot arrived, wrapped his thin

NEWCOMB-HEILEMAN

Miss Helen Heileman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Heileman, and Charles E. Newcomb were married last evening at the home of the bride's parents, Seventh and Johnson streets. Rev. J. S. Rumbarger of the English Lutheran church, performed the ceremony. Miss Carrie Strauss was bridesmaid and S. Kabat was best man. The bride wore a handsome gown of white embroidered voile. Miss Henrietta Heileman, sister of the bride, played the wedding march. The bridal party stood in an alcove banked with ferns and palms. The wedding supper was served from a handsomely appointed table which was decorated with pink and white carnations. Festoons of smilax formed a canopy over the table.
About twenty-five guests were present. Mr. and Mrs. Newcomb left last evening for Galesburg, Ill., where they will spend a week.

"GEORGE" UNPOPULAR NAME

There was a time when George was as unpopular a name in this country as William now threatens to be. That was the period of the Hanoverian succession. Political feeling ran high, and no supporter of the Stuart cause would have dreamed of bestowing the name of George upon his child. At the Collegiate church, Manchester, some of the Jacobite clergy went to the length of refusing the name in baptism. They justified their action by quoting an old English canon which empowers ministers to decline to confer any pagan name.

JOB HUNTING IN ALASKA

ernment employees are a comparative few experienced engineers.

CANDY IN POLITICS

The Chicago candidates for alderman who distributed a thousand pounds of candy to the women who attended a political meeting addressed by him has established an expensive precedent for other candidates.
Candy of the kind likely to influence the female vote costs more money than cigars.

THE GENERAL SUSPICIOUS

We found the moving picture of the Haytian revolution very entertaining and instructive, but General Zamor looked suspiciously like the colored hackman who drove us to our hotel the last time we were in Tampa.—Columbia State.

A San Francisco clergyman recently at the close of his sermon announced that in the course of the week he expected to go on a mission to the heathen. One of his parishioners exclaimed, "Why, my dear doctor, you have never told us one word of this before. It leaves us unprepared.
What shall we do?" "Brother," said the minister solemnly, "I shall not leave town."

Between Two Fires.

"I hear you intend to move. What's the trouble?" "Why, hang it, the family above us has bought a piano, and the girl in the flat below is learning to burn leather."—Boston Transcript

tical form of commendation to God—

meaning "God be with you."

Overnight Relief
For Constipation

When the bowels become clogged with a mass of poisonous stomach waste, sick headache with all its attendant misery, belching of sour stomach gases, bloated and general discomfort are sure to follow.

A mild, pleasant laxative-tonic that will carry off the congested mass without upsetting the stomach or griping the bowels, is the combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldjust before retiring will afford grateful relief next morning, without unpleasantness or discom-

S. S. S. is a Regular Wizard in Driving Out Rheumatism.

Rheumatism is often the effect of some other blood affliction that has left its impression in the joints, muscles and mucous coverings of the body. It works into the tissue cells, those tiny, little bodies in which nutrition goes on. And it is here that a most remarkable medicine known as S. S. S. does its most active and most effective work.

Its action is marvelous. Bed-ridden rheumatics get on their feet as if by magic. That cold, clammy sensation that made you hug a red hot stove is gone in a twinkling. That excruciating pain that made a feather lay as heavy as a ton of coal on the skin is gone. You get up and dance with glee.

Your rheumatism is gone—absolutely!
It is an actual logical fact, that Swift's Sure Specific flushes your blood, gives your entire blood circulation a fine thorough bath. It just naturally and in a twinkling irrigates every atom in your body. It rushes into every cell, causes every bone, muscle, ligament, tendon, mucous surface and every nerve to thrill with freedom, with health, with newfound springiness.

And best of all, S. S. S. though a powerful searching, overwhelming enemy to pain and the causes of rheumatism is as pure as the dew on a peach blossom, as powerful as the heroic works of nature, as searching as the peremptory demand of the most exact science.

Ask for and insist upon getting S. S. S.
the world's cure for rheumatism.

Deliberations of Federal Arbitration Board Set

LABOR PROTESTS VOICE OF NAGEL

Assert That Trustee of the Busch Estate Cannot Be Unbiased in His Decision

CHICAGO, April 30.—Members of the federal arbitration board, who took evidence in the fight of 65,000 locomotive engineers and firemen on 98 western railroads for wage increases were in session until the wee small hours today, in an effort to reach a decision in the dispute.
The time limit for the decision is midnight tonight unless a further time extension is granted.

The deliberations of the arbitration board have been unequalled in the history of labor and capital. Taking of testimony consumed 124 days,
from November 30, 1914 to April 2, 1915, inclusive. It has been the most costly labor arbitration work in the history of organized labor but railroad officials and labor men have pointed out that the cost has been infinite small compared with what might have been the cost of a strike on 98 railroads.

As time for an award has drawn near labor heads have vigorously protested against any decision being reached while Charles Nagel of St. Louis remains a member of the board. Labor chiefs have told President Wilson that Nagel, as trustee of the Adolphus Busch estate, which controls the Manufacturers' railroad of St. Louis, and the holdings of which include many railroad securities, cannot be unbiased.

Somehow a man who doesn't know right from wrong always does wrong.

NINTH EPISODE

Kidnaped

CHAPTER I.

FROM his concealment amid the shrubbery Ned Warner rose to rush forward as the brilliantly lighted limousine, with its gay party of five, swept down the drive of the Villard home. His eyes were burning, he was breathing heavily, and his fingers were curved like claws, for in a moment more he intended to grapple with the throat the black Vandyke face bent smilingly over Ned's lovely runaway bride.

At that instant three shadowy figures sprang also from amid the shrubbery, two men and a woman. There was no outcry and scarcely any struggle. Ned Warner found himself suddenly seized from behind, a rough sleeve across his mouth, his arms pinioned. He was lifted bodily and thrown as Gilbert Blye, with the grace and gallantry only possible to a polished man of the world, assisted the radiant June Warner from his luxurious limousine.

The deserted groom, his head still held in a vise-like grip and his mouth stopped, saw his bride enter the house, surrounded by the gay group, the darkly handsome Blye on one side and the white mustached Orin Cunningham on the other.

It was Marie who made the gag to slip in Ned's mouth. Then Marie slipped back of the house. The two men, one apparently a chauffeur, referred to as Henri, and the other a gardener, picked Ned up and followed her. As they passed the brightly lighted library Ned saw June's collier greet her with the height of canine joy, saw Cunningham and Blye making friends with the dog, then saw the twinkling-eyed Cunningham sit in a cozy corner with June and begin an animated tete-a-tete. The chauffeur and the gardener shrunk back in among the bushes with their helpless burden.

There came a high powered racer whizzing down the drive. The man let himself in with a latchkey

she jumped up and pulled the other thumb. The piano began a succession of slivery notes. June, and over her bent the inordinately tall Villard.

"Well!" said the gardener in the dimness of the garage, and he brushed his arms. It was all the rest they needed. He turned ponderously toward their captive, whom they had deposited in a corner on a bench. The gardener's one word was a question, an exclamation of relief and an expression of complete and thorough bewilderment. He was a broad Swede, and his arms hung crooked with muscles.

"I know nothing," laughed the wiry little chauffeur. He was a Frenchman with an infinitesimal mustache and a quick eye and a childlike joy in everything. "The maid of the charming mademoiselle telephones from the pantry to the garage that there is a man near the hedge who must not come near mademoiselle, who must not speak, to whom nothing must be said, and all must be prompt! Vol-la! I am Henri, and all of action. I call my friend Jens." And he tapped the huge Swede approvingly on the chest. "I bring my friend Jens swiftly by the mere force of my enthusiasm. We glide through the bushes so, like a snake. No!" He laughed and smote his friend Jens on the wide chest. "Like a snake and a bull. We creep up behind the interloper. We pounce upon him so, like a cat. No! Like a cat and a hippopotamus. We bear him to the earth. Mademoiselle trips lightly from her car, a vision, a dream, a ravishment!" And he wafted a kiss to the general abstract of beauty. "The charming mademoiselle is safe. The interloper is here. Vol-la!"

Wide Jens reached his hand into his pocket for a pipe and glanced over to where Ned sat quietly in the corner.

"Well!" he said.

"Wait," replied Henri. "I shall sit here placidly. I shall smoke a cigarette; perhaps two. I shall think."

Ned Warner stirred impatiently. He gave another tug at the ropes which bound his wrist, but it was only an involuntary test. He must rest before he made another determined attempt to free himself.

He gave a sudden wrench at his bonds, struggling so fiercely to loosen them that he rose and reeled toward the door.

Huge Jens Janssen stopped Ned from falling.

The chauffeur laughed, and, springing from his seat in the touring car, he jumped up, cracked his heels together and snapped the fingers of both hands. "I have the grand plan to dispose of our quite solicitous. She became suddenly aware that Marie had been in such a state of nervous excitement as she had never exhibited before.

"Nothing, Miss June; nothing at all! I'm afraid of burglars!"

"Why, Marie, come here!" Marie came slowly over, nervously kneading some knotted pink thing in her hands. "Your eyes are feverish. You must go to bed, Marie. Wait. Bring me my medicine case and a glass of water."

Meekly Marie took what June gave her, but later she dashed down the stairs and streaked across to the garage. Empty!

At that moment Ned Warner, his hands and feet still bound and his mouth still gagged, was being gleefully deposited in a deserted woodcutter's shed in the middle of a vast, bleak grove. Through the trees the moonlight glinted on distant water, and the shadows of the trees lay in fantastic, twisted patterns on the hillside.

Dawn. The red glow of the sunrise, filtering through the mist of the morning, stole in at the open door of the Villard garage and found Marie, with her fists folded under her arms and the tip of her frosty nose in her elbow, loudly snoring.

She limped over to the house, plodded up to her room, dressed herself with numb fingers and after half an hour of dull eyed thought scrawled this note, which she laid on June's bed:

Dear Miss June—I am feeling better, thank you. I hope you will excuse me if I take a few hours off. I will be back for lunch. Hoping you are the same, I remain, yours affectionately, MARIE.

She tiptoed out and hurried down the hill to the station, where she caught the first commuters' train. Arriving at the city, she sought Officer Dowd and prevailed on him to phone Ned's friends and June's parents that Ned had been kidnaped.

June in a pretty little morning robe was busy among the flowers in Mrs. Villard's boudoir window conservatory and singing softly when she heard a footstep behind her. Turning, she saw Villard towering above her, his hands in the pockets of his lounging robe, and he was grinning.

"Oh!" exclaimed June, startled. "Good morning." "So this is friend wife's pretty new companion," observed Villard. "Well, friend wife, has excellent taste."

June moved away.

"Don't be in a hurry," he chuckled. "We must get acquainted," and, suddenly reaching forward, he put his hand under her chin and turned up her face. She jerked away, but he closed the door

Side by side the two women stood looking at the man and the dog. Mrs. Villard needed no explanation to tell her what had happened. For the first time in her married life she gave way to anger.

"You beast!" she cried, her cheeks scarlet and her eyes flashing. "This is the last! I warned you to leave this girl alone! I hate you! I could see you torn to shreds! Go on, Bouncer!"

The collier crouched at June's feet.

The man rose cautiously.

"You forget!" husked the man. "We have a bargain!"

Mrs. Villard lowered her eyes for a moment. "It is broken!" she suddenly flared. "You have paid me well, and I have served you well! But we were not to interfere with each other's life! You have interfered with mine! I am through!"

She stripped her hands of her rings and threw them at him. She swept from the room, followed by June and Bouncer. They heard the man telephoning for his racer at a nearby garage, and while Mrs. Villard was still packing her clothing her husband came along the hall. He stopped at the door.

"I don't think you will find that your new line of work will pay you as well as being my wife," the man snarled.

Mrs. Villard sprang to the door and closed it in his face, and Villard laughed mockingly.

"He is a beast!" said Mrs. Villard and sat down, as if she wished to say something more. There was the sound of wheels at the door. Mrs. Villard suddenly buried her face in her hands and cried.

Money! Again June was face to face with another angle of that eternal problem, which, it seemed to her, had complicated the entire relationship of men and women. Mrs. Villard had plainly and palpably sold herself, and the price is never great enough for any woman who has done that. Always in June's rapidly widening observation the man gave and the woman received, and her very dependence made the question of matrimony one of essential barter and sale. It was wrong! It destroyed the very source and fount of love. Was there no remedy? June, shaken though she was by her painful experience of the morning, was strengthened in her own resolve. The answer to the problem was independence even though she suffered in the attainment of it, even though Ned suffered. Their love would be all the stronger for it, and it would be pure always.

Could she have seen Ned at that moment all her theories and all her deductions would have taken

Henri, and in his eyes was a very great weariness.

"Where is Mr. Ned?" screamed Marie.

"Name of the good Lord!" groaned Henri. "He is watching the day perhaps. Such a headache!" And Henri pressed his thumping brow.

"Where is Jens?"

"Vanished! I wake up. Jens is no more! He has had a fight, they say. He has been licked, they say. The enormous ruffian who is strong enough to box my friend Jens has stolen the machine. Here it is. Vol-la! Jens must have returned!"

"Where is Mr. Ned?" she demanded.

"In the woods," Henri waved his arms comprehensively.

"Not tied?"

"As you saw him, Mlle. Marie." And once more Henri was able to laugh. He blew a kiss to the sky. "It was well executed, mademoiselle. It was Henri, myself, who!"

"You take me right out there," she ordered. "Bravo!" he approved. "It is another good enterprise! I have enthusiasm!"

"Then don't talk about it!" snapped Marie, and lightly as a cat Henri climbed over his spare tires, plumped into the seat beside Marie, and away they sped.

At 7:15 that night Bobbie and Iris Blethering, the latter June Warner's bosomest of bosom friends, strolled into the Cafe New York. Suddenly Iris grabbed Bobbie by the arm, and he turned to her in surprise. Iris for the first time in her life was speechless, and her face was pale, but she could look. She was staring at a table in the corner. There sat the runaway bride, laughing and chatting happily with a vivacious brunette, a pleasant faced lady of mature years, a dark, handsome man with a black Vandyke, a pink faced, white mustached man who bore all the evidences of a bon vivant and a heavy, round headed man with thick eyelids!

Her moment of paralysis past, the hearty Iris made a straight dive for June's table, and it was Bobbie's turn to clutch her by the arm.

"Look here," he whispered in her ear while he held her, "what can we do? We interfered once and messed it all up. Now, the right thing to do is to telephone Ned."

"I'll sit right behind this post and watch that table!" Iris promptly decided. "You telephone, and hurry up. But I do wish I had a good place to cry!"

Ned was at home when Bobbie called. He was ready to start on any journey in search of June—and Gilbert Blye! When he arrived at the cafe he found Iris and Bobbie Blethering in a state of quivering excitement.

"WHAT'S THE MATTER MARIE?"

NED A PRISONER

"THEN ABOARD THE YACHT!"

"THAT'S MY BEST TRICK"

and, with his hands in his pockets, strolled nonchalantly into the parlor.

Mrs. Villard, talking with Gilbert Blye and Tommy Thomas, turned, and as she saw the newcomer her eyes widened imperceptibly and a look of concern flashed down across her gentle countenance.

"Well, Bert, you're a surprise," she said.

"That's my best trick," he drawled, kissing Mrs. Villard perfunctorily. "Hello, Tommy! Howdy do, Blye?"

Villard was impressed as his eyes fell upon the fresh beauty of June.

"Mr. Villard, Mrs. Warner." The introduction was very cold, and again that concern flickered for a moment on Mrs. Villard's face as she saw her husband's eager interest. "My companion," she added, and Cunningham and Tommy Thomas, glancing at each other, smiled.

With a careless nod to Cunningham, Villard walked over to June and, taking her hand, held it while he smiled down at her with such obvious admiration that the helpless bound and gagged man beyond the library window lurched free from his captors and tugged at his bonds until they almost cut into his wrists.

Marie came back from the corner and motioned. The chauffeur and the gardener followed with the husband of the beautiful young girl, who was then smiling her courteous responses to the dissolute Bert Villard. Marie sped quickly across the shadowy back lawn to the garage and opened the door.

"He's not to talk, and he's not to come near the house," she whispered as the men passed her with their burden. She caught Ned's indignant eyes fixed on her, and that glare threw her into a panic. "Whatever you do, don't hurt him!" she hastily added. "Don't hurt him!"

Outside the door Marie paused. Her eyes were distended until they were perfectly round, and her high cheek bones gleamed white. She put the knuckles of her right hand against her teeth and looked over at the garage. She pulled at the lobe of her ear with her left hand and looked in the house. She started back, and she started forward, and she turned around in a half circle. She was well nigh distracted with the weight of her great secret, was Marie. If she told Miss June that Mr. Ned was in the garage there'd be an end of everything, and maybe it would be all for the best, or Miss June might run away again from such comfortable surroundings, and it would be all for the worse. Marie sat down and pulled her thumb; then

Jens Janssen stooped and circled one arm around Ned Warner's middle and deposited his violent load in the tonneau.

Marie in the pantry hall stood wringing a corner of her dainty little lace apron; then she dashed back into the servants' hall and folded her arms tightly upon the hollow at her waist. She dared not leave Mr. Ned where he was! She dared not do anything, and yet she must! She burst out of the rear door, was across the porch in two strides, down the steps in one jump and went swishing for the garage. As she came the touring car shot from the opposite door and went whizzing up the drive, Henri in front and in the tonneau Ned and huge Jens Janssen.

CHAPTER II.

AT parting Gilbert Blye held June's hand between both his and patted it gently, his black eyes glowing down at her, and he was smiling upon her with that suave smile which she had come to trust.

"Tomorrow night at dinner," he said, lowering his voice the slightest particle as if the remark were addressed in confidence to her, though the others were crowded eagerly round.

There was an instant of hesitation. "Then aboard the yacht!" exclaimed Tommy Thomas. She was looking at June, her deep red lips parted in a smile. June's cheeks paled. After all, as Mrs. Villard's companion it was her duty to go on this trip.

"Shall we take Bouncer?" suggested the pleasantly modulated voice of Blye.

"Of course Bouncer shall go!" June declared, and this time the handsome collier, on his feet in an instant, wagged his tail so vigorously that his hind feet slid.

There was instant gratification in the faces surrounding June.

Far away in the night Henri was speeding northward. Every now and then he turned to look back and laugh, where Jens Janssen sat stolidly puffing his pipe, one immense hand constantly on the arm or the knee of Ned Warner.

"Vol-la!" cried Henri in high glee as the sharp night wind cut past his face.

"Well," grunted Jens in huge content.

June put herself into the hands of the agitated Marie very thoughtfully after the visitors had gone. "What is the matter, Marie?" June's tone was toward which she darted and, gathering her in his long arms, crushed her to him, raining kiss after kiss upon her suddenly cold cheek, his light gray eyes flaming. June's struggles were futile and her shrieks muffled, but one pair of ears heard. There was a crash of glass, the flash of a long, lithe, white and brown body through the room, and then, with an oath, Villard released his hold on the fainting girl. Bouncer! He had sunk his teeth into Villard's arms, and now he was a whirlwind of canine fury.

The man turned pale with fear, kicking and striking at the enraged animal.

"Bouncer!"

That cry from June saved Villard's life, for the dog, with a yelp of joy, was springing for his throat as he fell. The man lay back. The dog stood still, motionless. The man's hand moved nervously. The collier moved precisely that same amount. Villard did not twitch a muscle from that time on, except to speak.

"Call off the dog!" he ordered.

"Watch him, Bouncer," said June quietly.

June rose from the chair into which she had limply sunk, but a cold anger had come to replace her weakness. She walked from the room and, going to the house phone in the hall, called to the kitchen.

"Has Mrs. Villard returned?" she inquired of the maid who answered.

"Not yet."

"Do you know where to reach her?"

"Any one down at the cottages will hunt her up and give her your message."

"Ask her to come home immediately, please. Tell her it is quite important."

She walked back to the boudoir and glanced in at the door. The two statues were as she had left them. At the sound of her footstep Bouncer wagged the tip of his tail, but not for one fleeting instant did he remove his fiery eyes from the pale gray eyes of Bert Villard.

Mrs. Villard, hurrying up the stairs within a few moments, found June in the landing alcove white, shivering as if with cold.

"I'm sorry, Mrs. Villard, but I am going at once," she said before the older woman had even a chance to speak.

"Why, child!"—Mrs. Villard's face was full of concern, but as she stared at June her brows knotted and a flush crept into her cheeks—"what—what is the matter?" she faltered.

June was already halfway up the stairs. She turned. Mrs. Villard, without a word, followed her.

swift flight, and she would have bathed with her tears the swollen wrist which he had just freed from the rough rope that had bound it.

Slowly and with infinite pain Ned finally freed his hands. They were quivering as, with a mighty effort, he raised them to the back of his head and fumbled with the knot which held his gag in place. It seemed ages before he was able to remove that tight bandage. He removed the tight things from around his ankles. He limped awkwardly for half a mile, bent and stooped like an old man, but exercise restored him, and by the time he found a road he was his vigorous self again and full of the dogged determination which had led him so far in the pursuit of his runaway bride.

Down the highway a mile or so he found an obscure roadhouse, and he strode in at the saloon door.

While ordering a "bracer" for his shattered nerves he saw his two captors sitting at a table. He rushed madly at them and knocked them both to the floor. Dashing out of the place, he saw their auto. He jumped in, pressed the starting button and sped away.

The house of Mrs. Villard was closed and locked when Ned arrived there at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

In the meantime June and Mrs. Villard and Bouncer were snugly ensconced in a pleasant hotel downtown, and before her at the writing table Mrs. Villard held open a bank book. Its figures represented the price she had received for the sale of her ten best years, and she had spent an hour in the debate of whether to give up her earnings. June had been taken into that debate, but she had been able to offer no argument on either side. She had realized at last a great and saddening truth—that every woman's problem must be for herself alone.

Marie meantime, with Officer Dowd as interpreter, had telephoned everywhere for news of Ned Warner, but without result; then in despair she telephoned the Villard house to excuse her absence to June. That number did not answer after repeated trials. Marie, more frantic now than ever and feeling sure that she was about to lose her mind, hurried straight down to the station and took a train to the Villard place. It was closed, locked.

Just as Marie was pondering over this remarkable circumstance there came trudging down the drive a natty little figure, its limbs neatly incased in leather leggings, its cap pushed on the back of its head, but its tiny little mustache all fuzzy. It was

"You're just in time!" gasped Iris.

"They're leaving," said Bobbie. All the pentup murder which had seethed in Ned Warner's heart for days flamed into his eyes as, with an oath, he started for the table.

"Stop him, Bobbie! Stop him!" suddenly cried Iris Blethering, and, jumping in front of Ned, she threw her arms about his neck and hung her weight upon him, while Bobbie, also frightened by the terrible expression of Ned's countenance, impeded his progress on the other side.

Ned had turned to shake off his clogging friends when June, drawn by some intangible force, wheeled slowly and looked in that direction.

"Ned!" she cried.

Both Cunningham and Blye paled as they saw that movement and what had caused it. As by a simultaneous impulse they took her by the arms, one on each side, and turned her toward the corner entrance near which they had sat.

"I won't go!" she declared and tried to hang back, but they forced her out of the door.

Ned Warner saw June's piteous face as she half turned it to look back, saw her being kidnaped from under his very eyes, and, bursting through the group which impeded him, he made a dash among the tables and across the restaurant.

Too late! He reached the corner entrance only in time to see Blye's luxurious limousine whirl away up the street. June was frantically determined that she would not go where they were taking her. Mrs. Villard was pale and panic stricken, but the other three carried out their pretense of laughing coercion. On the front seat with Scatt, Blye's wide featured Italian chauffeur, sat T. J. Edwards, the round headed, heavy man, and his thick lidded eyes peered constantly back through the glass, and there was a firm set to his thick lips.

There was no one at the lonely dock upon which the swiftly speeding limousine stopped abruptly, no one to hear or heed the call for help which June tried to send up above the noisy laughter of five of her companions, for now Edwards and Scatt joined loudly in the hilarity.

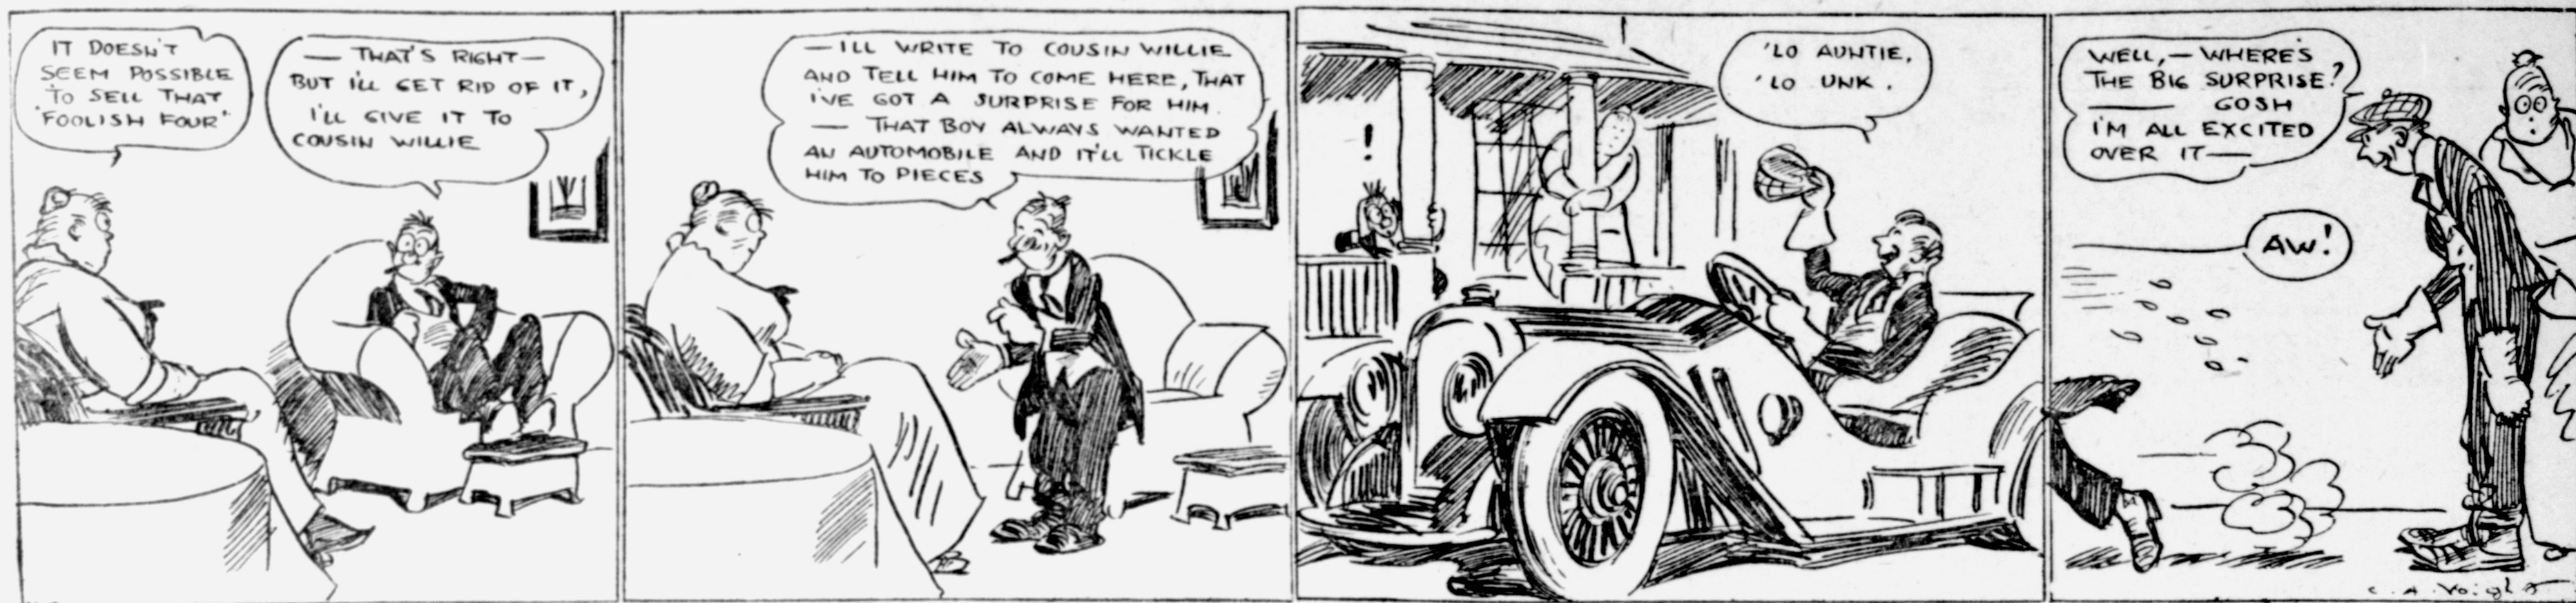

There was a cold, stern voice in June's ear. "We've had quite enough of this hysteria. You're going along!" It was the voice of Gilbert Blye.

It was he who, with Orin Cunningham, forced her from a lonely dock into the motorboat which lay alongside, and in another moment all except Scatt were speeding swiftly away toward the long, low yacht which lay midway of the misty river!

Pointers for Florida Land Buyers

The best land in Florida is as good as there is on earth, and it is cheap at the prices asked for it, because it brings the returns, in money, to justify the price, and provides an ideal climate and beautiful environments for a home.

We are selling "the best land in Florida" only; located in one of the most delightful spots in America; up on the hills of Polk County and among as beautiful lakes as there are in the world; three hundred feet above sea level; far away from the frosts of winter and the heat of summer; away from the malaria and mosquitoes and the objections that are found in the low lands.

The price of our land runs from $60 an acre up, depending upon its proximity to towns and lakes, and it is the cheapest land in the state, all things considered. Proof of this statement is found in the fact that we sell to practically every one who makes a personal inspection or sends a personal representative.

When it comes to buying land in Florida, there are many things to be considered of vastly greater importance than the price.

If you buy land where you lose an occasional crop of fruit, on account of frost, you lose, each time this occurs, several times the amount we ask for our land, where we have perfect immunity from frost.

If you buy land where there is danger from frost and you have to fill your grove with smudge pots to protect your fruit, the smudge pots cost nearly as much as we ask for our land, to say nothing of the expense and trouble of operating them.

If you buy land covered with a heavy growth of palmetto and scrub timber, it costs more to have the land cleared than we ask for our land, and the cost of clearing. Our land can be cleared for $20 per acre—it is free from palmetto.

If you buy land that has to be drained it may easily cost more to drain it than we ask for our land, which has perfect, natural drainage.

If you buy land underlaid with hardpan, it costs more to dynamite it and get it in condition to plant to trees than we ask for our land, which is absolutely free from hardpan.

Our next Excursion to Dundee on the Famous Ridge, TUESDAY, MAY 4th.

Join us, let us drive you through our wonderful citrus groves, talk with our hundreds of contented purchasers; let us satisfy you on every statement we make. May is the most disagreeable month of the year in Florida. Let us prove that EVEN IN MAY the heat is not excessive, that the nights are delightfully cool, that our section is blessed with ideal climatic conditions. Come in, talk with the man who has been there.

UNREDEEMED TAX LIST AND NOTICE

State of Wisconsin, La Crosse County—City of La Crosse.

Pursuant to the provisions of section 32 of Chapter X, of the charter of the City of La Crosse, being section 32 of subsection 162 of the Laws of Wisconsin of 1887, and the several acts amendatory thereof, requiring the clerk of the city of La Crosse to publish a list of all unredeemed lands sold in said city of La Crosse for taxes, interest and charges by the treasurer of said city on the 21st day of May, 1915.

Notice is hereby given that the following described tracts, pieces, parcels and lots of land assessed respectively to the persons named opposite each description, which were sold on the 21st day of May, 1912, for taxes, interest and charges due on them respectively, will after the expiration of three years after the date of such sale, to-wit: After the 21st day of May, 1915, unless such tracts, pieces, parcels and lots of land are redeemed on or before the 21st day of May, 1915, be conveyed to the purchaser or owners of the several tax certificates bearing date of the 21st day of May, 1912, and covering the several tracts, pieces, parcels and lots of lands hereinafter described, pursuant to the statutes in such cases made and provided, that the sum set opposite the several descriptions hereinafter designated are the amount of taxes, interest and charges calculated to the last day of redemption, due respectively on each tract, piece, parcel and lot of land.

Dated La Crosse, Wis., April 2, 1915.

"TABS" IN CABARETS

NEW YORK, April 30.—Tabloid, abbreviated musical comedy is the newest addition to menu of Gotham's lobster palaces. Today the chefs are being backed off the menu or card to a large extent by the foot-light Dottie Dimples. Of course, the bon ton cafes are still retained in action as places to eat, but the Cabaret craze has now gone a step farther and real musical comedy provided for patrons.

RECIPE TO CLEAR A PIMPLY SKIN

Pimples are Impurities Seeking an Outlet Through Skin Pores

Pimples, sores and boils usually result from toxins, poisons and impurities which are generated in the bowels and then absorbed into the blood through the very ducts which should absorb only nourishment to sustain the body.

It is the function of the kidneys to filter impurities from the blood and cast them out in the form of urine, but in many instances the bowels create more toxins and impurities than the kidneys can eliminate, then the blood uses the skin pores as the next best means of getting rid of these impurities which often break out all over the skin in the form of pimples.

The surest way to clear the skin of these eruptions, says a noted authority, is to get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of hot water each morning before breakfast for one week. This will prevent the formation of toxins in the bowels. It also stimulates the kidneys to normal activity, thus coaxing them to filter the blood of impurities and clearing the skin of pimples.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent drink which usually makes pimples disappear; cleanses the blood and is excellent for the kidneys as well.

M'CARTHY FIGHTS FOR RETENTION OF "BILL FACTORY"

Head of Legislative Reference Department Stands Grilling Cross Questions of Senator Ackley

MADISON, Wis., April 30.—Dr. Charles McCarthy, head of the legislative reference department, appeared before the senate committee on education and public welfare yesterday afternoon in opposition to the Perry bill to abolish the legislative reference bureau and transfer its duties to the state law library. The Perry bill carries an appropriation of $2,500 as compared with an appropriation of $21,000 required by the legislative department of years when the legislature is in session. Wisconsin spends more money for legislative reference bureau than any other state, said Senator Perry.

For over an hour Dr. McCarthy was subjected to a cross fire of questions by Senator Ackley. He was apparently able to answer all of the objections raised against him. Dr. McCarthy said that he had never asked a member to introduce a bill; that he had never attempted to argue a member out of introducing a bill.

Lively Wrangle On "Didn't you try two years ago to argue me out of introducing a bill relating to the number of aldermen a city should have?" asked Senator Ackley.

"I did not," came back the sharp reply from McCarthy. Senator Ackley still insisted and Dr. McCarthy then said the question was one of veracity between the senator and himself.

In answer to questions Dr. McCarthy said that no member of his staff had ever appeared before legislatures in favor of or against bills.

"Didn't Mr. Fitzpatrick appear before the educational committee on bills two years ago?" injected Senator Ackley.

"Mr. Fitzpatrick has never been connected with my department and has never drawn one cent from the pay roll of my department," replied Dr. McCarthy.

T. C. Richmond of Madison appeared in favor of the Perry bill. He said he believed the department established. There were sallies of wit and satire between the speakers that at times convulsed the audience that came to the hearing.

UNIFORM LAWS FOR MARRIAGES IN ALL STATES

Legislature Asked to Co-operate in Movement to Regulate Weddings and Divorces

MADISON, Wis., April 30.—A uniform marriage law for Wisconsin was advocated before the assembly committee on judiciary yesterday afternoon by E. W. Frost of Milwaukee and Prof. E. A. Gilmore of the university law school. Mr. Frost said that the bill had been worked out by a committee on uniform legislation and that the law had been adopted in four states and was now pending before legislatures in forty-three states. He said that the same objections were urged when it was proposed to pass the uniform sales act and that now a large number of the states had adopted it. He pointed out the advantage of having uniform laws in all states on subjects of marriage and divorce. There was an extended argument as to whether the new bill would forbid common law marriages in the future. Some of the members of the committee thought that these marriages should be legalized. Prof. Gilmore said that if there were any provisions in the present Wisconsin marriage laws, which were stronger than the provisions of the proposed bill, they should be incorporated.

Assemblyman Nelson appeared before the judiciary committee in favor of his bill to abolish the office of the revisor of the statutes. He said that it was unnecessary to revise the statutes as often as is now done and that the people of the state should be saved this money. L. J. Nash of the revisor's office, opposed the bill. He showed from statistics that before this office was created the state spent more to have its laws privately revised than is now spent to operate the department. He also showed that the department rendered a greater service than was obtained when the laws were privately revised. John B. Sanborn also opposed the Nelson bill.

CONVICTS BUILD ROADS

SACRAMENTO, Cal., April 30.—Governor Johnson signed today a convict labor bill, permitting prisoners of the state penitentiary to build state highways. In a statement, the governor said apprehension that free labor will be affected is groundless.
